EFFECTIVE DATE OF DEBTORS' AND SHAREHOLDER PROPOSERS' JOINT CHAPTER 11 PLAN OF REORGANIZATION DATED JUNE 18, 2020

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that:

1. The Plan and Confirmation Order. On June 20, 2020, the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of California, San Francisco Division (the "Bankruptcy Court") entered an order (Docket No. 8053) (the "Confirmation Order") confirming the Debtors' and Shareholder Proposers' Joint Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization Dated June 19, 2020 (Docket No. 8048) (together with all schedules and exhibits thereto, and as may be modified, amended, or supplemented from time to time, the "Plan"). Capitalized terms used but not defined herein have the meanings ascribed to such terms in the Plan or the Confirmation Order, as applicable.
2. The Plan Effective Date. The Effective Date of the Plan occurred on July 1, 2020, and as a result, the Plan has been substantially consummated.
3. Plan Binding. The Plan and all provisions of the Plan (including, without limitation, all discharge, injunction, exculpation, and release provisions contained in the Plan and in the Confirmation Order) are binding on all holders of Claims against, or interests in, the Debtors, whether or not the Claims or interests of any such holder are impaired under the Plan and whether or not any such holder voted to accept the Plan. You are encouraged to review the Plan and the Confirmation Order in their entirety.
4. CHANNELING INJUNCTION. In addition to the other provisions of the Plan and the Confirmation Order, the Plan and the Confirmation Order provide that the sole source of recovery for holders of Fire Victim Claims shall be from the Fire Victim Trust, and the sole source of recovery for holders of Subrogation Wildfire Claims shall be from the Subrogation Wildfire Trust. The holders of Fire Victim Claims and Subrogation Wildfire Claims shall have no recourse to or Claims whatsoever against the Debtors or the Reorganized Debtors or their assets and properties. Consistent with the foregoing and as provided in the Plan and the Confirmation Order, all Entities that have held or asserted, or that hold or assert any Fire Victim Claim or Subrogation Wildfire Claim shall be permanently and forever stayed, restrained, and enjoined from taking any action for the purpose of directly or indirectly collecting, recovering, or receiving payments, satisfaction, or recovery from any Debtor or Reorganized Debtor or its assets and properties with respect to any Fire Claims, including all of the following actions:
 - a. commencing, conducting, or continuing, in any manner, whether directly or indirectly, any suit, action, or other proceeding of any kind in any forum with respect to any such Fire Claim, against or affecting any Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, or any property or interests in property of any Debtor or Reorganized Debtor with respect to any such Fire Claim;
 - b. enforcing, levying, attaching, collecting or otherwise recovering, by any manner or means, or in any manner, either directly or indirectly, any judgment, award, decree or other order against any Debtor or Reorganized Debtor or against the property of any Debtor or Reorganized Debtor with respect to any such Fire Claim;
 - c. creating, perfecting, or enforcing in any manner, whether directly or indirectly, any Lien of any kind against any Debtor or Reorganized Debtor or the property of any Debtor or Reorganized Debtor with respect to any such Fire Claim;
 - d. asserting or accomplishing any setoff, right of subrogation, indemnity, contribution, or recoupment of any kind, whether directly or indirectly, against any obligation due to any Debtor or Reorganized Debtor or against the property of any Debtor or Reorganized Debtor with respect to any such Fire Claim; and
 - e. taking any act, in any manner, in any place whatsoever, that does not conform to, or comply with, the provisions of the Plan Documents, with respect to any such Fire Claim.
5. Assumption of Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases and Resolution of Cure Disputes.
 - a. Pursuant to Section 8.1(a) of the Plan and Paragraph 32a. of the Confirmation Order, as of July 1, 2020 and subject to the payment of any applicable Cure Amount, all executory contracts and unexpired leases to which any of the Debtors are parties shall be deemed assumed, unless such executory contract or unexpired lease (i) was previously expired or terminated pursuant to its own terms or by agreement of the parties thereto, (ii) was the subject of a motion to assume, assume and assign, or reject filed by the Debtors on or before June 20, 2020, or (iv) is specifically designated as an executory contract or unexpired lease to be rejected on the Schedule of Rejected Contracts (as such Schedule may be amended).

b. Pursuant to Section 8.2(c) of the Plan and Paragraph 34 of the Confirmation Order, in the event of an unresolved dispute regarding (i) any Cure Amount, (ii) the ability of the Reorganized Debtors or any assignee to provide "adequate assurance of future performance" (within the meaning of section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code) under the executory contract or unexpired lease to be assumed, or (iii) any other matter pertaining to assumption, assumption and assignment, or the Cure Amounts required by section 365(b)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code (each, a "Cure Dispute"), such Cure Dispute shall be preserved and may be resolved in due course either consensually without further order of the Bankruptcy Court, or, after notice and an opportunity to be heard, by a Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court, which may be entered after July 1, 2020.

6. Time for Filing Rejection Damages Claims: Further Amendments to the Schedules of Assumed and Rejected Contracts.

a. Pursuant to Section 8.3 of the Plan and Paragraph 35a. of the Confirmation Order, in the event that the rejection of an executory contract or unexpired lease under the Plan results in damages to the other party or parties to such contract or lease, any Claim for such damages, shall be forever barred and shall not be enforceable against the Debtors or the Reorganized Debtors, or their respective estates, properties or interests in property, unless a proof of Claim is filed with the Bankruptcy Court and served upon the Debtors or the Reorganized Debtors, no later than thirty (30) days after the later of (i) June 20, 2020, or (ii) the effective date of the rejection of such executory contract or unexpired lease, as set forth on the Schedule of Rejected Contracts or in an order of the Bankruptcy Court.

b. Pursuant to Paragraph 32d. of the Confirmation Order:

i. the Debtors or the Reorganized Debtors have thirty (30) days from June 20, 2020 to file amendments to the Schedule of Assumed Contracts (as defined in the Plan Supplement) and Schedule of Rejected Contracts, to remove executory contracts and unexpired leases previously listed on the Schedule of Assumed Contracts and to add executory contracts and unexpired leases to the Schedule of Rejected Contracts;

ii. any counterparty to an executory contract or unexpired lease that is added to the Schedule of Rejected Contracts or removed from the Schedule of Assumed Contracts shall have thirty (30) days from the date on which notice of such removal or addition is served on the counterparty to file an objection thereto, which objection may be resolved either consensually without further order of the Bankruptcy Court, or, by a Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court, with any rejection deemed approved as of July 1, 2020; and

iii. the rejection of any executory contract or unexpired lease added to the Schedule of Rejected Contracts shall be deemed approved by the Bankruptcy Court as of July 1, 2020 if an objection to the addition of such executory contract or unexpired lease to the Schedule of Rejected Contracts is not timely filed as provided above.

For the avoidance of doubt, the counterparty to an executory contract or unexpired lease that is added to the Schedule of Rejected Contracts shall have thirty (30) days to file a claim for rejection damages following the later of (i) July 1, 2020 and (ii) if a timely objection to rejection is filed and is not consensually resolved by the parties, the entry of an order approving the rejection of such executory contract or unexpired lease.

All such final requests will be subject to approval by the Bankruptcy Court after notice and a hearing in accordance with the procedures established by the Bankruptcy Code, the Interim Compensation Order, and any other prior orders of the Bankruptcy Court regarding the payment of Professionals in the Chapter 11 Cases.

Biden pitches manufacturing plan

The Democrat unveils a $700-billion ‘made in America’ economic recovery proposal.

By MELANIE MASON

Joe Biden laid out a populist economic vision on Thursday, starting with a $700-billion proposal to reinvigorate the nation’s manufacturing sector, and laced into President Trump for being out of touch with the challenges facing the American public.

Speaking at a metal works plant in Dunmore, Pa., the presumptive Democratic presidential nominee said the barrage of crises pummeling the nation — the COVID-19 pandemic, the subsequent economic fall-out, the turmoil over racial injustice — offer an opportunity for sweeping improvement to “build back better,” as he dubbed his recovery plan.

“This is our moment to imagine and to build a new American economy for our families and for our communities — an economy where every American has the chance to get a fair return for the work they put in, an equal chance to get ahead,” he told his socially distanced audience of about 50 people.

By turning his focus to the economy, Biden aims to chip away at one of the few advantages the president still has. Polls have shown voters continue to trust Trump more to handle the economy than Biden, though overall the former vice president has built steady advantages in the national matchup, battleground states and key demographics such as women and senior citizens.

The manufacturing proposal, the first plank of four initiatives Biden is planning to roll out in the coming weeks, includes spending

MATT SLOCUM Associated Press

JOE BIDEN, striking a populist tone in Dunmore, Pa., blasted President Trump’s “nearly $2 trillion in tax breaks, predominantly handed out to the super-wealthy.”

$300 billion on research and development projects in clean energy, telecommunications, artificial intelligence and other fields.

He would also commit to $400 billion in his first term for federal procurement of American-made products ranging from clean vehicles to construction materials. The promise of government purchases, the campaign said, will give businesses the confidence to hire additional workers.

The campaign did not specify how it would pay for the proposals, but Biden has broadly endorsed rolling back some of the Trump administration’s tax cuts and said in his speech he would increase the corporate tax rate to 28%. (Trump and Republicans cut that rate from 35% to 21% in 2017.)

Biden’s plan also aims to boost domestic production

by tightening rules on what products can be designated “made in America” and updating international trade rules around government procurement.

It also includes previously announced measures to manufacture more medical equipment and other critical supplies to battle pandemics, after reliance on international supply chains proved to be problematic in the current COVID-19 crisis.

For months, the former vice president has signaled a shift in his economic thinking spurred by the public health and financial crises gripping the country. Instead of promising a return to normalcy — which defined his message during the presidential primaries — Biden began talking up bold, transformational change as necessary to address the upheaval brought by the coronavirus. The manufacturing proposal offers a glimpse at how Biden is translating that rhetoric into policy.

Much like Trump in his 2016 campaign, Biden struck a populist tone, promising to advocate for the American worker who has seen manufacturing job prospects decline in the globalized economy. But Biden used that line to draw a contrast with Trump, painting him as siding with elites and showing little interest in learning about the stresses faced by everyday Americans.

Biden promised “an economy that says investing in American people and working families is more important than the nearly $2 trillion in tax breaks, predominantly handed out to the super-wealthy.”

“Donald Trump loves to talk and talk and talk, but after 3 ½ years of big promises, what do the American people have to show for all the talk?” he said.

Never shy to use his biography to punctuate a point, Biden referenced chapters in his own life — his middle-class upbringing in nearby Scranton, his experience as a single father raising two young sons after his first wife died in a car accident — to show his familiarity with the challenges many are facing. Trump, he said, couldn’t relate.

“It’s unconscionable that he doesn’t even try to understand or empathize with the struggling of so many millions of people out there,” Biden said.

He excoriated Trump’s handling of the coronavirus outbreak, which has killed more than 133,000 people in the U.S., and accused him of stoking tensions in the current reckoning over racial justice.

“That’s the tragedy of Donald Trump being our president today,” he said. “He is exactly the wrong person to lead us at this moment.”

In a sign of how crucial Pennsylvania, a longtime blue state that flipped to Trump in 2016, will be in November, Vice President Mike Pence was also in the state on Thursday, meeting with business leaders in Malvern to discuss reopening America’s economy and schools.

Pence spoke optimistically about U.S. economic prospects, saying he sees “this country coming back because of the solid foundation that was put in place” by the White House’s pre-pandemic accomplishments, such as tax cuts, rollbacks of regulation and negotiations of new trade deals.

He repeatedly knocked Biden, warning that the Democrat would hike taxes and carry out a “government takeover of healthcare.”

Biden’s speech came one day after his campaign, in a joint effort with Sen. Bernie Sanders of Vermont, his former rival, released policy recommendations for the Democratic Party platform.

Like Biden’s manufacturing proposal, the recommendations embrace robust government action but steer clear of some of the more sweeping, and controversial, items on progressives’ wish list, such as “Medicare for all,” a Green New Deal or defunding the police.

The framework was created by six task forces composed of Biden and Sanders allies, which was meant to smooth over lingering tensions from the Democratic primaries.

Biden commended their work as “helping build a bold, transformative platform for our party and for our country.”

“And I am deeply grateful to Sen. Sanders,” he said in a statement, “for working together to unite our party, and deliver real, lasting change for generations to come.”

Sanders, acknowledging the policy disputes he had with Biden, also complimented the outcome.

“Though the end result is not what I or my supporters would have written alone, the task forces have created a good policy blueprint that will move this country in a much-needed progressive direction and substantially improve the lives of working families throughout our country,” he said.

Some in the party’s left flank say they’re heightened by the moves Biden has made so far to follow through on his pledge for aggressive action.

“Biden’s bold moves recently seem less like a political hat tip to progressives and more him rising to this moment we’re living in,” said Adam Green, co-founder of the Progressive Change Campaign Committee, a left-leaning group allied with Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren.

Green applauded Biden’s manufacturing plan for drawing inspiration from Warren’s proposal to use federal procurement to plow money into American-made products.

The other pillars of Biden’s economic plan, to be detailed in future speeches, include developing clean energy and sustainable infrastructure, building up a workforce of caregivers and educators, and advancing racial equity.

Major outbreak hits state Capitol

At least 26 lawmakers, including the leading Republicans, test positive in Mississippi.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JACKSON, Miss. — Packed elevators and crowded committee rooms. Legislators sitting shoulder to shoulder on the House and Senate floors. People standing close to one another and talking, sometimes leaning in to whisper, without a mask in sight.

Those were common scenes at the Mississippi Capitol in June — a month that saw a historic vote to remove the Confederate battle emblem from the state flag — and now at least 26 lawmakers have contracted the coronavirus in the biggest known outbreak in any state legislature in the nation.

That works out to about 1 in 7 Mississippi legislators.

Among those testing positive in the heavily Republican body are the GOP presiding officers, House Speaker Philip Gunn and Lt. Gov. Delbert Hosemann.

None of the lawmakers has been hospitalized, according to state officials.

President Trump has resisted wearing a mask, and many other Republicans have cast face coverings and social distancing mandates as infringements on their freedom. But around the Mississippi Capitol, not wearing a mask — or wearing one pushed below the chin — was a bipartisan activity in recent weeks.

Mississippi has seen a rapid rise in confirmed cases in the last two weeks, with the total hitting nearly 33,600 by Thursday, including at least 1,200 deaths.

In addition to the legislators, at least 10 people who work in the Capitol have tested positive for the virus, the state health officer said Wednesday. And the numbers could well be higher: The figures are based only on Health Department testing done in Jackson, including drive-through testing Monday at the Capitol. Some members were tested after returning to their hometowns beginning July 1.

“If you have been in contact with anyone in the Legislature, or if you have been in contact with any staff person that works at the Legislature, you need to get tested,” said Republican Gov. Tate Reeves, who has tested negative.

BOSNIA-HERZEGOVINA

Many massacre victims still not IDd 25 years later

By Sabina Niksic and Eldar Emric

SREBRENICA, Bosnia-Herzegovina — A quarter of a century after they were killed in Europe's worst massacre since World War II, eight Bosnian men and boys will be laid to rest Saturday in a cemetery just outside of Srebrenica — their marble gravestones joining thousands more, each with the same month and year of death.

Over 8,000 Bosnian Muslims perished in 10 days of slaughter after the town was overrun by Bosnian Serb forces in the closing months of the country's 1992-95 fratricidal war. Their executioners tried to ensure they would never get the sort of memorial Srebrenica holds every year. Their bodies were plowed into hastily made mass graves and then later dug up with bulldozers and scattered among other burial sites to hide the evidence of the crime.

But, since 1996, Bosnian and international scientists have slowly unlocked what was once described as the “biggest forensic puzzle anywhere in the world,” unearthing the bones from those gruesome death pits and connecting them with the names of the people to whom they belonged.

When the remains are identified, they are returned to their relatives and reburied in the Potocari memorial cemetery. And each year on July 11, the anniversary of the day the killing began in 1995, relatives gather for a funeral of the recently identified. Most of the dead were men and boys, so most of the mourners are women — mothers and sisters, daughters and wives.

Mejra Djogaz, 71, a survivor of the Srebrenica 1995 massacre, kisses the tombstones of sons Omer, 19, and Munib, 21. They were killed in the large-scale killings in Bosnia's 1992-95 war.

Massacre survivor Fazila Efendic will attend the collective funeral this year to witness her sisters in grief bury a handful of bones, as she once did.

Having a grave to visit will bring them some relief, Efendic says. Her husband, Hamed, and her only son, Fejzo, were killed in the massacre.

For years, every time a new mass grave was found, she rushed to the site hoping to see something she would recognize as having belonged to her loved ones.

“There are no words to describe the sorrow you feel when you are looking for (your loved ones) bone by bone,” Efendic said. “I visited every newfound mass grave; I’ve seen the inside of every one of them.”

All of Hamed’s remains were found in two mass graves, one unearthed in 1998 and the other in 2000. Fejzo — or rather two of his leg bones — was found in another one several years later. Efendic buried her husband at Potocari after his remains were found but waited years before finally deciding to do the same with Fejzo’s partial remains.

BURKINA FASO

Volunteer crew unable to adequately battle jihadists

By Sam Mednick

KONGOSSI, Burkina Faso — Armed only with a knife, Issa Tamboure was no match for gun-wielding jihadists who attacked his village in northern Burkina Faso in March.

So Tamboure, 63, rounded up his family — including his 13 children — and ran, eventually reaching a camp for people displaced by violence.

But Tamboure was not a typical civilian fleeing the extremists linked to al Qaeda and the Islamic State organization who have been dramatically escalating their attacks in the West African nation in recent years. He is among the volunteers who signed up with Burkina Faso's military to help fight the militants.

But his plight shows the program's weakness: With little training, few weapons and dwindling means amid an economic downturn fueled by the coronavirus pandemic, volunteers now say they are unable to adequately battle the well-armed extremists.

“When you don’t have enough to eat, you don’t have enough strength to use a rifle,” said Tamboure, running his fingers over the family’s tattered tent in a makeshift displacement camp in Kongoussi, about 15 miles from his home. He said the number of volunteers who patrol a swath between his village and the camp at night has fallen in recent months to around 200 from 500.

For years, Burkina Faso was spared the kind of Islamic extremism that hit neighboring Niger and Mali, where a 2013 French-led military intervention dislodged jihadists from power in several major towns. But deaths from attacks in the country have risen from about 80 in 2016 to over 1,800 in 2019, according to the United Nations. Burkina Faso's military has struggled to contain the violence despite training and aid from the French and U.S. militaries.

Sam Mednick / Associated Press

Volunteer fighters drive motorcycles during an event in the capital, Ouagadougou, Burkina Faso.

In an attempt to bolster the army, the government passed a law to arm civilians in January. Many towns have no government or military presence, leaving only this corps of volunteers to protect their villages.

Armed with a few hunting rifles and knives, the fighters patrol the surrounding bush and escort displaced civilians back to their villages to plant crops or pick up belongings or to other areas to visit relatives. In Kongoussi last month, residents said they were grateful for the patrols.

“Even if I’m a little afraid, I feel safer with the volunteers,” said Soulei-man Soule, 44.

But several volunteer fighters in hard hit areas in the north and west of the country said that because of the economic downturn caused by the pandemic they no longer have money to buy gas for their motorbikes to conduct patrols.

Analysts are concerned that restrictions on movement imposed to control the virus will make it harder for the volunteer fighters to receive equipment and supplies, thus emboldening the militants, especially in rural areas.

Meanwhile, the volunteers have been targeted by the jihadists. In the western region of Boucle du Mouhoun last month, several people said volunteer fighters were being killed in the markets.

Such attacks were predictable, say experts.

e. taking any act, in any manner, in any place whatsoever, that does not conform to, or comply with, the provisions of the Plan Documents, with respect to any such Fire Claim.

5. Assumption of Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases and Resolution of Cure Disputes.

a. Community partnership hopes to fuel citizens and restaurants

BY EMA SASIC

esasic@bakersfield.com

Food insecurity and economic instability have been brought to the forefront in Kern County during the COVID-19 pandemic, but a new partnership hopes to provide some fuel for individuals and small businesses in need.

Representatives from Kern Economic Development Foundation, Southern California Gas Co. and the Community Action Partnership of Kern gathered Thursday outside Victor's Mexican Grill on Brimhall Road to kick off a new Fueling Our Communities partnership linking seniors and farmworkers with meals from local restaurants.

The goal is to provide 450 to 500 meals to seniors and farmworkers each week for 13 weeks. About 100 Kern County small business restaurants will participate, all of which are located in the SoCalGas service area.

The program will be operational by the end of the month.

During the last few months, CAPK has seen an increase in the number of people seeking food resources, explained Pritika Ram, director of administration at CAPK.

"Our food bank on any given month does roughly 1.2 million pounds of food. During the peak times of COVID, we increased our food distribution to roughly 2.4 million pounds of food every month," Ram said. "Through our 211 call center, a lot of the calls we're getting are around food insecurity."

Small-business restaurants have also been impacted by the coronavirus, having to shut down their locations and alter services.

Through the partnership, CAPK CEO Jeremy Tobias said the program finds a way to solve problems both individuals and restaurants face.

"It helps alleviate food insecurity for those in need and those vulnerable in the community, but it also helps our local businesses and helps keep people employed ... to keep people from needing the services that we provide," he said.

CAPK focuses on linking individuals to various social service agencies. It receives about 100,000 calls each month.

has dealt with challenges the last few months, explained owner Victor Lopez. Though the Brimhall Road location has received plenty of community support, his downtown location has been hardest hit, due to many people working from home and not in surrounding office buildings. Lopez estimates service has dropped by 50 percent.

He was also in the process of signing a lease for a fourth location in southwest Bakersfield in March. Once the coronavirus prompted stay-at-home orders and closures, however, the project went on

Lopez said he's "excited" to participate in the program to support community members and alleviate the stress surrounding where someone might find their next meal.

"It's awesome to be part of that," Lopez said. "It's great on (SoCalGas') part to be so generous and do something for a community in these challenging times."

CSUB: We 'stand with our international students' amid uncertainty over US studies

BY EMA SASIC

esasic@bakersfield.com

Cal State Bakersfield is standing behind its international students after U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement announced Monday new visa guidelines that don't allow international students to continue studying in the United States if they take all of their courses online.

ICE notified colleges that international students will be forced to leave the U.S. or transfer to another college if their schools offer online-only courses this fall. New visas won't be issued to students at those schools, and others at universities offering a mix of online and in-person classes will be barred from taking all their classes online.

The guidance says international students won't be exempt even if an outbreak forces their schools online during the fall term.

In May, CSU Chancellor Timothy White announced courses will be primarily delivered online for the fall 2020 semester, with limited exceptions for in-person activities and instruction.

CSUB President Lynnette Zelezny and Provost Vernon Harper wrote in an email to the campus community that university leaders, in consultation with the Chancellor's Office, are reviewing what the ICE decision means for CSUB's international students. There were 131 international students enrolled in the spring, and 28 were scholar-athletes.

"We know this decision is distressing for our international students, faculty and staff. This is a matter of urgency, and we will have more information soon on how the CSU and our own campus plan to proceed," the email stated. "In the meantime, please know that CSU Bakersfield stands with our international students, their families, friends and supporters in our 'Runner community.'"

CSU Director of Public Affairs Toni Molle added that the Chancellor's Office is currently working with individual campuses to rereview online and in-person offerings to determine if they meet the new ICE directives.

"International students add to the vibrant diversity of CSU's 23 campuses," Molle wrote in an email. "The new policy guidance from the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement could immediately lead to slowing or even worse, halting of more than 11,300 students' paths to achieving their higher education goals and potential contributions to our communities and economy."

SoCal fireworks brought spike in pollution

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Air quality in a wide swath of Southern California during the Fourth of July weekend was worse than in any year in the last decade and the cause was likely the increased use of personal fireworks and weather conditions, regulators said.

Public fireworks shows were canceled due to coronavirus concerns but there was extensive use of personal fireworks that produced a mix of a large number of aerial bursts and explosions across the region for hours.

Meanwhile, dry, stagnant air trapped the pollution longer than usual, the South Coast Air Quality Management District said.

Fireworks emit high levels of particulate matter known as PM2.5 and PM10 and metal air pollutants.

Overall average concentrations of PM2.5 in the South Coast Air Basin were 70 percent higher than previous years between 7 p.m. on July 4 to 7 a.m. July 5, the district said. The highest concentrations were in central Los Angeles, North Hollywood and Anaheim.

"Some instruments were found to have so much particulate matter residue on them that it resulted in readings so high the data could not be properly validated," the district said.

Air quality in overnight and early morning hours reached the categories of "very unhealthy" and "hazardous" in parts of Los Angeles and Orange counties.

The district spans Orange County and major portions of Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

First-year Giants coaching staff overhauls park

One of few teams with more than 50 players working

By Kerry Crowley
Bay Area News Group

SAN FRANCISCO » It's been nearly a week since the San Francisco Giants held their first full-squad summer workout at Oracle Park, but the club has yet to schedule its first in-person team meeting.

For decades, major league clubhouses have played host to meetings featuring casual conversations, motivational speeches and even verbal altercations that shape a team's season. During the coronavirus pandemic, the new normal looks nothing like the past.

"I think to a certain extent we'll continue to be creative and you won't see a full-fledged 30 people sitting in the clubhouse with a staff," Giants bench coach Kai Correa said. "With keeping the health and safety of players at the forefront, we'll continue to pursue things with the scoreboard, talks outside in the bleachers and group texts and video conferences and iPad video sharing as ways to circumvent that and help us be not only efficient but safe."

Correa, the Giants' first-year bench coach, is one of the masterminds behind the team's socially distant workouts. One of manager Gabe Kapler's first hires, Correa came to the Giants in the offseason from the Cleveland Indians organization, where he worked as a minor league infield coordinator often responsible for scheduling spring workouts involving 200-plus players and coaches.

Prior to working in professional baseball, Correa coached in the small college ranks at the University of Puget Sound and the University of Northern Colorado where he overhauled the way teams approached infield instruction, recruiting and even program fundraising.

The experience made Correa a natural fit with Kapler, who wanted his staff to prioritize efficiency, player development and communication. Since the pandemic brought sports to a halt, Correa feels the organization has delivered on its mission.

"From a process standpoint, how well it's gone is a direct reflection of the silo-less culture that's been built under the modern Giants in Farhan (Zaidi) and Scott (Harris) and Kap," Correa said. "Because the groups are so interconnected, be it minor league player development, facilities, grounds crew, baseball ops, the field staff and the front office, that's where it starts."

From mid-March through mid-June, leaders from each group Correa mentioned were in constant communication. Each time Major League Baseball discussed a new proposal for restarting the league, members of the organization analyzed how the team could safely begin practicing again.

"Anything from doing it in Arizona to doing it here to doing it at two sites, it was talked about, discussed and planned for," Correa said. "One of the things I'm most proud of is our staff and our front office and all of the different departments, one of the reasons we've been so prepared is they were willing to do work that may not have paid off."

When Commissioner Rob Manfred finally announced the league planned to implement a 60-game season on June 22, the Giants had already developed a master plan to reconfigure Oracle Park in a way that would allow the team to host socially distant workouts.

It's impossible to keep players six feet apart at all times, but players and coaches have been wearing masks, working in small groups and spending as little time indoors as possible.

"Our former players' parking garage is now our weight room, our warmup room and a place where we can take ground balls and almost long toss because it's such a big space," Kapler said. "We've got no fewer than six tunnels to hit in. We've got portable mounds in each corner, plus we've got our brand new bullpens and mounds in dugouts."

Ballparks around the league have been reimagined to prioritize player safety, but the Giants are one of the few teams that have not yet sent a portion of players from their pool to an alternative training site. Every healthy player in the Giants' pool is working out in San Francisco and receiving instruction from a 13-coach staff, which is the biggest in the majors.

The logistics of coordinating travel, coronavirus intake tests and initial workout schedules required a herculean effort, and Kapler, Correa and members of the front office credit first-year traveling secretary Abe Silvestri and senior director of athletic training Dave Groeschner for working around the clock to ensure the process flows as smooth as possible.

Taking the field on a daily basis during a pandemic hasn't come without issues — the Giants canceled Tuesday's workout after coronavirus test results from Saturday had not been received — but the greatest hurdle in the process was out of the organization's control. If not for a delay in processing tests at a league-approved site in Salt Lake City, the biggest complaint the Giants could lodge at this point in the process has to do with generous strike zones.

"One of the things that hasn't gone according to plan is we could just do a better job as a group of calling balls and strikes in these sim games," Kapler said. "We've kind of left it up to catchers. We know that Major League Baseball is going to help us with umpires and that's going to give the umpires a chance to get up to speed at some point and so I think that's one of my own pet peeves."

Many of the Giants' veteran players have expressed their gratitude for the organization's efforts to ensure their health and safety, but the time spent preparing for a summer workout schedule also focused on smaller details that should pay dividends early in the season.

Outside of implementing measures to prevent the spread of COVID-19 and producing training regimens designed to limit injuries, the Giants' staff labored to ensure workouts and live batting practice sessions would create realistic opportunities for players to prepare in game-like scenarios.

"Making sure they see a correct distribution of right- and left-handed pitching, making sure double play partners work together, making sure they're in groups that are also manageable for a coach-to-player ratio, making sure pitching buildups are appropriate," Correa said. "Those are kind of all of those things."

When the Giants first devised daily practice schedules, they received suggestions and approval from the medical staff, the strength and conditioning staff, baseball operations analysts, the clubhouse staff and veteran players.

Instead of following a more traditional model of giving players a time to report to the ballpark each day and letting them know what a workout would look like piece-by-piece, coaches send out minute-by-minute schedules of daily activities in advance so players know exactly what to expect.

Providing players with detailed information ahead of time isn't a result of new planning spurred by the pandemic, but instead one of many changes the Giants' staff implemented during spring training in Arizona.

"My thought process is you get greater flexibility and buy-in when people can prepare for what's coming next," Correa said. "The game is tough enough in itself and you have to make adjustments to pitches and to batters, you shouldn't also have to make adjustments to schedule."

One of the most important people with hands in the decision-making and scheduling processes is Ron Wotus, the only holdover from Bruce Bochy's staff and a coach who knows the habits and routines of many of the Giants' veteran players. Wotus knows what's feasible to expect from players and Correa said he's been an invaluable part of planning the summer.

While all of the preparation has paid off during the first week, the Giants know they must be flexible and able to adapt on the fly. Players will suffer injuries or setbacks, workout groups will change and as the Giants learned this week, MLB's testing process can send things spiraling out of control quickly.

For all the work spent preparing socially distant workouts, there will be several hundred more hours focused on responding to the challenges and needs at hand.

"You can put whatever science you want to it, but at the end of the day, you've got to have those conversations. 'How are you feeling? Do you need a lighter day?'" Correa said. "It's filtering through that plus what the information tells us in building out matchups and workloads and that's going to be the bulk of creating the best opportunity for iron to sharpen iron."

Group calls attention to systemic racism in sports

Black Players for Change makes 1st public showing

By Anne M. Peterson
The Associated Press

Now that Major League Soccer has re-started, a group of Black Major League Soccer players is using the moment to call attention to systemic racism across sports and society.

Black Players for Change was formerly the Black Players Coalition of MLS, but changed its name this week while joining forces with the Players Coalition, the NFL players group founded by Anquan Boldin and Malcolm Jenkins.

Black Players for Change made its first public demonstration since coming together last month at Wednesday night's opening game of the MLS Is Back tournament in Florida.

Players stood, fists raised, for 8 minutes and 46 seconds, the time that has become a symbol of police brutality, after a Minneapolis police officer had his knee on George Floyd's neck when he died. More than 170 Black players, some wearing "Silence is Violence" T-shirts and Black Lives Matter face masks, took part in the pre-game protest.

"Really this protest is about fighting for racial equality and human rights," organizer Justin Morrow of Toronto FC said. "We're standing with all of our brothers and sisters across the world — definitely across the North American sports landscape, but we see what's happening over in Europe as well, how soccer players are fighting against racism there. We're standing with all of our brothers and sisters to fight this fight."

Black Players for Change sprung from an Instagram group started by Morrow after the death of Floyd. The death sparked protests worldwide against racism and policy brutality.

Portland's Jeremy Ebobisse, Chicago's CJ Sapong, Nashville's Jilil Anibaba, NYCFC's Sean Johnson and Colorado's Kei Kamara are among some of the other players involved. The group has the endorsement of both MLS and the players' association.

"It was very powerful to put my fist up and to be there on the field with so many people that are trying to make a change in this country. And that's what we need to do," Inter Miami's Juan Agudelo said.

The group has called on the league to increase diversity hiring in coaching, front office and executive positions, appoint a chief diversity officer, implement implicit bias training and expand cultural education.

It has also discussed developing the game in black communities and partnering with charities, and has already secured $75,000 in charitable contributions from the MLS Players Association.

"This moment for us as a black player pool, is that we can stand up, we can make this statement that's come completely from us. It was so important that it was player led, it couldn't have worked the other way around," Morrow said. "This moment of solidarity with our brothers and sisters fighting this battle for racial equality and human rights is so important. And we want to make sure that the narrative was player led, player driven in coming strictly from us."

The Players Coalition partnership allows the two groups from different sports to share resources in a common goal. The NFL group, which aims to address social justice and racial inequality, was started in 2017 after team owners objected to players kneeling during the national anthem.

"The commonalities and goals of both our organizations presented a natural opportunity to align," Boldin said in a statement. "I am excited to continue the growth of Players Coalition as an opportunity for all athletes."

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Big Ten to limit sports to conference

By John Zenor
The Associated Press

The Big Ten Conference announced Thursday it will not play nonconference games in football and several other sports this fall, the most dramatic move yet by a power conference because of the coronavirus pandemic.

The league cited medical advice in making its decision and added ominously that the plan would be applied only "if the conference is able to participate in fall sports."

"As we continue to focus on how to play this season in a safe and responsible way, based on the best advice of medical experts, we are also prepared not to play in order to ensure the health, safety and wellness of our student-athletes should the circumstances so dictate," the league said.

Besides football, the sports affected include men's and women's cross country, field hockey, men's and women's soccer, and women's volleyball.

"By limiting competition to other Big Ten institutions, the conference will have the greatest flexibility to adjust its own operations throughout the season and make quick decisions in real-time based on the most current evolving medical advice and the fluid nature of the pandemic," the Big Ten said.

THE COUNTY

ALAN DEP — MARIN INDEPENDENT JOURNAL

A grazer roams near Chimney Rock in Point Reyes National Seashore last year. The gross value of Marin County agricultural products was nearly $98 million in 2019.

Farm report outlines 4% gain

By Richard Halstead
rhalstead@marinij.com

Marin County's agricultural production grew 4% in 2019, marking the second consecutive year of growth after declines in 2016 and 2017, according to the county's annual farming report.

The total gross value of all Marin agricultural products amounted to more than $97.9 million in 2019, up from $94.1 million in 2018.

Milk production, organic and conventional combined, increased 12% to about $35 million in 2019. It was the first increase in milk production in five years, even though milk continues to be Marin's leading agricultural commodity. The amount of milk produced increased by only 3%.

"Production typically remains fairly consistent from year to year," said Stacy Carlsen, Marin County's agricultural commissioner. "Pricing is what affects the overall value."

Organic milk production increased 17%, reaching a value of $32.8 million after declining 8% the previous year. Conventional milk production fell 29% to $2.2 million, compared with a decline of 17% in 2018. The price of organic milk has fallen as the supply has increased because more conventional dairies are switching to organic.

Other major sectors contributing to Marin's agricultural production grew more modestly or declined. Poultry production, which accounted for $20.3 million in value, was 13% lower than in 2018. Cattle production increased 4% from the previous year to $14.8 million.

The biggest year-to-year increase came in aquaculture — the harvesting of oysters, mussels and clams — which jumped 34% to $6.9 million. The production value of Marin's sheep also increased a 27% to $2.1 million.

The value of Marin's fruits and vegetables amounted to about $3.59 million, down 13% from 2018. Hay production was down 36%, while the production value of silage rose 22%.

"Wet weather in the first half of 2019 impacted various producers in the county," Carlsen wrote in his report. "Field crops as well as fruit and vegetable producers saw a decrease in yields and value due

City Council resolves to act against racism

By Lorenzo Morotti
lmorotti@marinij.com

The Sausalito City Council has adopted a resolution in support of the Black Lives Matter movement aimed at condemning systemic racism and promoting racial equity.

The resolution, approved in a unanimous vote Tuesday, passed with amendments by Councilman Tom Reilly to include mention of Marin City. The resolution seeks to foster trust between the two communities by calling for affordable housing through a land trust, inviting Marin City residents to join committees and ensuring that the desegregation of the Sausalito Marin City School District is successful.

"This is not a quarterly report. This is a five- to 10-year process," Mayor Susan Cleveland-Knowles said. "It's very important to acknowledge these issues that we're talking about now that have become entrenched over hundreds of years. That will take a deep commitment on many years to begin to address them."

"Overall, I think this is a long-term plan, but we need to take some actions now," she said.

Sausalito is 92% white, 3.5% Asian, 1.5% Black and 3% other ethnic groups, according to a city staff report that draws on 2010 census data. Marin City is about 40% Black, according to the report.

"Marin County has the highest level of racial and ethnic inequities of all counties in California, according to a 2017 report by the Advancement Project California," City Clerk Heidi Scoble said during a presentation at the meeting.

Dozens of residents from Sausalito and Marin City called into the council meeting, which was held by teleconference because of the coronavirus outbreak. Some shared their gratitude, while others said they were dissatisfied with the city's actions, saying city leaders have been apathetic about social justice and diversity.

Critics pointed to an amicus brief that the city filed in support of Willow Creek Academy's motion challenging the state attorney general's call for the desegregation in the Sausalito Marin City School District. It asked the court to make the investigation public so stakeholders could weigh in on the allegation that the district board deliberately diverted staff and resources to Willow Creek Academy, a predominately white charter school, while depriving those resources from Bayside Martin Luther King Jr. Academy, which predominantly serves students of color in Marin City.

The district and the Attorney General's Office reached a settlement last year to unify the schools within five years.

"I must say that I've been deeply disappointed by City Council's response to school

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice of Preparation/Environmental Scoping and Virtual Open House for Draft Environmental Impact Report (EIR) / Environmental Assessment
(EA) for the Proposed State Route 37 Traffic Congestion Relief Project

WHAT'S BEING PLANNED

The California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) has initiated a public review period and is conducting a virtual open house to request comments on the scope and content of a planned EIR/EA for the proposed State Route (SR) 37 Traffic Congestion Relief Project in Sonoma, Napa, and Solano counties. Caltrans, in partnership with the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) and the Sonoma County Transportation Authority (SCTA), Solano Transportation Authority (STA), and Napa Valley Transportation Authority (NVTA) is proposing improvements to SR 37 from west of the SR 121 intersection to Mare Island, where the existing highway narrows to one lane in each direction. The project is focused on traffic congestion relief by improving traffic flow during peak travel times and increasing vehicle occupancy within the travel corridor. Three project alternatives are under consideration, including converting existing shoulders to part-time or full-time travel lanes, and/or installing a movable median barrier to provide a three-lane facility within the project limits. The additional lane(s) is intended to be a High Occupancy Vehicle (HOV) lane to provide an incentive to shift to multi-occupant vehicles.

WHAT'S AVAILABLE

Caltrans filed a California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) Notice of Preparation (NOP) with the State Clearinghouse on July 10, 2020. The NOP contains information about the project scope, purpose and need, and planned environmental studies. The NOP can be viewed on-line at <https://dot.ca.gov/caltrans-near-me/district-4/d4-projects/d4-37-corridor-projects>. For printed copies or assistance, email StateRoute37@dot.ca.gov.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE

OF DEBORAH JUNE RIEKER

Case Number: 20PR188142

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent

creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both of:

Deborah June Rieker aka Deborah J Rieker

A Petition for Probate has been filed by

Judith Devivo in the Superior Court of California, County of Santa Clara.

The Petition for Probate requests that

Judith Devivo be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination

in the file kept by the court.

The petition requests authority to administer

the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however,

the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows:

Date: 7/30/2020 Time: 9:01 a.m. Dept.: 13

Address of Court: Superior Court of California,

County of Santa Clara,

191 North First Street, San Jose, CA 95113.

Probate

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court

before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in Section 5800 of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor.

You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special

Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of a petition or account as provided in Probate Code

section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Venues like the Tower Theatre were the first to close as the pandemic hit and performances were canceled.

ciation says 90% of independent venues report they will close permanently in a few months without federal funding. Even iconic venues like the Troubadour in Los Angeles have taken to GoFundMe to stave off permanent closure.

“One thing has become painfully clear: keeping independent venues alive requires the government’s help,” according to the NIVA website.

The group is lobbying for industry specific Pay-check Protection Program loans, similar to what was offered for the restaurant industry. It is also asking for continued unemployment benefits and temporary tax credits to offset the cost of ticket refunds, rent and mortgage and employee safety and retention.

It has also created the hashtag #saveourstages to help raise awareness.

BUSINESS WAS BOOMING

In a sad twist, the Tower Theatre was coming off a great 2019 and expecting to have an even bigger 2020 before the pandemic hit.

“It was off the hook,” Abbate says.

“It just couldn’t get any busier.”

The theater had a packed calendar and had booked a full opera season. There were even tentative plans to expand the building around the theater to two floors, making way for loft units that could be rented out by those in town for shows.

“All of that is just gone,” he says.

It was a similar situation at Fulton 55, which had just celebrated its ninth anniversary and had several good years in which it pocketed away some money to make improvement on the venue for its 10th year in business.

“We had a nest egg,” says Tony Martin, who manages the downtown music club.

The pandemic just pushed the timeline, some.

“We thought: If we’re going to be closed, let’s go ahead on these renovations and updates,” he says.

The venue recently hired Fresno painter Josh Wigger to do a mural across the entire length of the building. The downstairs’ bar got updated, along with other upgrades inside the building.

NEXT STEPS FOR REOPENING

Even when the venues are allowed to reopen, it will likely be with restrictions set on capacity. Abbate expects rules similar to church regulations, which allow for 25% capacity, or 100 people, whichever is fewer.

That’s a losing proposition, he says. Adjusting that 100-person attendance cap would allow the theater to survive at least the year. The theater could operate its 761 seats at 25% capacity and break even on most shows, or with small losses, he says.

All that means entertainment venues are being forced to experiment with their business models.

The Tower Theatre is looking at the possibility of hosting outdoor drive-in style concerts in its back parking lot. That could happen as early as September, Abbate says. They are in talks with the rock band LA Guns, which was scheduled to play the theater in June.

The show would cost $125 a car and operate much like a drive-in theater.

Fulton 55 hosted a series of audience-free live stream performances. They were mostly to give local bands an opportunity to make some tips — and a few made a decent amount. Ultimately, the effort was overwhelming for the one-man staff.

The venue also looked into reopening without entertainment, using the guidelines in place for bars, but ultimately decided it wasn’t worth the risk to the employees or patrons.

“We decided. It’s just not safe enough,” Martin said.

“We don’t want to be a part of the problem.”

Regardless of when and how the venues are allowed to reopen, it to be a slow transition back to work, Martin says. It will take time — and possibly a vaccine — before people feel totally safe going out to see live entertainment.

“We’ll start off slow and build it back,” he said.

The current situation seems bleak, but Martin is optimistic about the future on the other end of the pandemic for those venues that make it.

“When we get back to whatever the new normal is, things will be a little better.”

Florida hits new one-day high in virus cases

Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

Florida on Sunday reported the largest single-day increase in positive coronavirus cases in any one state since the beginning of the pandemic.

According to state Department of Health statistics, 15,299 people tested positive, for a total of 269,811 cases.

California had the previous record of daily positive cases – 11,694, four days ago. New York had 11,571 on April 15.

The numbers come at the end of a grim, record-breaking week in Florida, with 514 fatalities. On Sunday, 45 more deaths were reported.

Throughout May and into June, the state reopened much of its economy with some restrictions.

Testing has increased, but the percentage of people testing positive has risen even more dramatically. A month ago, fewer than 5% of tests came up positive on a daily average. Over the past week, the daily average exceeded 19%.

Despite the number of cases surging around the country, a member of the White House coronavirus task force said Sunday the situation “is not out of control.”

Brett Giroir said it’s going to take “a lot of effort and everybody’s going to have to do their part” to combat the pandemic.

And the assistant secretary at the Health and Human Services Department said “we have to have people wearing a mask in public. It’s absolutely essential.”

Giroir told ABC’s “This Week” that officials would like to see something like 90% of people wearing a mask in public in areas that are hot spots.

He said that “if we don’t have that, we will not get control of the virus.”

Neng Yu, et al. v. JD Home Rentals, et al. Class Action Settlement

A proposed class action settlement has been reached in the lawsuit Neng Yu, et al. v. JD Home Rentals, et al. Fresno County Superior Court Case No. 14 CECG 00062. The lawsuit makes a number of claims, including the Defendants maintained their rental units in generally substandard conditions, which allegedly caused the rental units to suffer from a number of conditions. The lawsuit further claims that tenants were required to pay rent for such untenable units, incur expenses for making their own repairs and otherwise suffer other monetary damages. Defendants have denied the claims. Nonetheless, Defendants and the Class Representatives have agreed to settle the dispute to avoid the uncertainty and costs of further litigation and trial.

Who is a Class Member? There are two groups of Class Members: current tenants and former tenants. The Current Tenants, who are referred to as Current Tenant Settlement Class Members, are defined as follows:
"All individuals who, as of December 20, 2019 are current tenants (i.e. lease signatories and/or adult occupants listed on a lease) in a residential property owned or managed, in whole or in part, including through a partnership or corporation, by any of the Defendants, including JD Home Rentals and/or any of the owners of the units, in the City or County of Fresno, California."
The Former Tenants, who are referred to as Former Tenant Settlement Class Members, are defined as:
"All individuals who, on or after January 9, 2010, had been, but were not as of December 20, 2019, tenants (i.e. lease signatories and/or adult occupants listed on a lease) in a residential property owned or managed, in whole or in part, including through a partnership or corporation, by any of the Defendants, including JD Home Rentals and/or any of the owners of the units, in the City or County of Fresno, California."
What are my Legal Rights? This Notice is only a summary. You may obtain more complete information by visiting www.fresnojdhome rentalssettlement.com and viewing the full Class Notice, by writing to the address at the bottom of this notice, or by calling the Settlement Administrator at 844-612-7911.
In general, the Current Tenant Settlement Class Members will have the option of an independent inspection of the unit that a tenant occupies or rent freeze for a period of eight months after the Final Approval of the Settlement. In addition, for a period of two years after the settlement becomes effective or expiration of an agreed budget, the Current Tenant Settlement Class Members will have access to an ombudsman to receive complaints about repairs and maintenance matters. Furthermore, a pest control inspector will perform a single pest control inspection and assessment of each unit occupied by the current tenants. Finally, for a period of 12 months after final approval of the Settlement, if that occurs, JD Home Rentals agrees not to terminate any tenancies except for certain good cause.
If the Settlement is finally approved, you will receive a further notice as a current tenant that will give you a right to select either an independent inspection or the rent freeze.
The Former Tenant Settlement Class Members will be entitled to a rental credit voucher that may be used if they move to a unit owned or managed by Defendant in the City or County of Fresno, California within two years of final approval or, if the voucher is not used or transferred, a cash amount once the voucher expires. The dollar amount of the voucher depends on the size of the unit that the former tenant occupied: $250 for a one-bedroom unit; $350 for a two-bedroom unit; and $500 for three bedrooms or more in a rental unit.
If the Settlement is finally approved, you will subsequently receive a claim form which will give you the opportunity to make a claim for the voucher.
Unless you take steps to exclude yourself from the Settlement, you will be bound by the Settlement (including all releases) and all of the Court's orders if the Court approves the Settlement. If you do not file anything, you will be bound by the Settlement. This means you will not be able to make any claim that is covered by the Settlement against Defendants or any other Releasees in the future.
If you wish to exclude yourself from this Settlement, you must submit a letter to the Settlement Administrator at the address below postmarked by August 22, 2020. If you send that letter, you will not be entitled to any benefits of the Settlement. If you do not send that letter, you will be part of the Settlement. Please visit the settlement website at www.fresnojdhome rentalssettlement.com for more information.
If you wish to object to the Settlement, you must do so by submitting your objections to the Settlement Administrator at the address below postmarked by August 22, 2020. Please visit the settlement website at www.fresnojdhome rentalssettlement.com for more information.
The Final Approval Hearing will be held on November 17, 2020, at 3:30 p.m. in Department 503. The Court will, among other things, decide whether the Settlement is fair, reasonable, adequate and should be approved. The Court will also determine attorneys' fees, costs and expenses and other matters. You may attend the hearing, but you do not have to do so.
This is only a summary regarding this Settlement. For detailed information, including the full text of the Settlement and the Class Notice, please visit www.fresnojdhome rentalssettlement.com, call 844-612-7911 or write to P.O. Box 43550, Providence, RI, 02940-3550.

Acuerdo de Demanda Colectiva Neng Yu, et al. contra JD Home Rentals, et al.

Se ha llegado a un acuerdo propuesto de demanda colectiva en la demanda Neng Yu, et al. v. JD Home Rentals, et al., Caso N° 14 CECG 00062 del Tribunal Superior del Condado de Fresno. La demanda presenta un número de reclamaciones, entre otras, que los Demandados mantuvieron sus apartamentos de alquiler en condiciones generalmente precarias, lo que supuestamente provocó que los apartamentos de alquiler sufrieran una serie de problemas. La demanda también alega que los arrendatarios estaban obligados a pagar alquiler de dichos apartamentos, incurrir en gastos para hacer sus propias reparaciones y sufrir otros daños monetarios. Los Demandados han negado las alegaciones. No obstante, los Demandados y los Representantes de la Clase han acordado resolver la disputa para evitar la incertidumbre y los costos de litigios y juicios adicionales.

¿Quiénes son los Miembros de la Clase? Hay dos grupos de Miembros de la Clase: los arrendatarios actuales y los arrendatarios anteriores. Los Arrendatarios Actuales, a los que se les denomina Miembros de la Clase del Acuerdo de Arrendatarios Actuales, se definen de la siguiente manera: "Todas las personas que, al 20 de diciembre de 2019, son arrendatarios actuales (es decir, signatarios de arrendamiento y/u ocupantes adultos que figuran en un contrato de arrendamiento) de una propiedad residencial que es propiedad o está administrada, en su totalidad o en parte, mediante una sociedad o corporación, por cualquiera de los Demandados, incluyendo a JD Home Rentals y/o cualquiera de los propietarios de los apartamentos, en la ciudad o el condado de Fresno, California".
Los Arrendatarios Anteriores, a los que se les denomina Miembros de la Clase del Acuerdo de Arrendatarios Anteriores, se definen de la siguiente manera: "Todas las personas que, a partir del 9 de enero de 2010, inclusive, habían sido, pero no eran en el 20 de diciembre de 2019, arrendatarios (es decir, signatarios de arrendamiento y/u ocupantes adultos que figuran en un contrato de arrendamiento) de una propiedad residencial que es propiedad o está administrada, en su totalidad o en parte, mediante una sociedad o corporación, por cualquiera de los Demandados, incluyendo a JD Home Rentals y/o cualquiera de los propietarios de los apartamentos, en la ciudad o el condado de Fresno, California".
¿Cuáles son mis derechos legales? Este Aviso es solamente un resumen. Puede obtener información más detallada visitando www.fresnojdhome rentalssettlement.com y revisando el Aviso de la Clase completo, escribiendo a la dirección que se indica al final de este aviso, o llamando al Administrador del Acuerdo al 844-612-7911.
En general, los Miembros de la Clase del Acuerdo de Arrendatarios Actuales tendrán la opción de una inspección independiente del apartamento que ocupa un arrendatario o la congelación del alquiler por un periodo de ocho meses después de la Aprobación Final del Acuerdo. Además, durante un periodo de dos años después de que el acuerdo entre en vigor o el vencimiento de un presupuesto acordado, los Miembros de la Clase del Acuerdo de Arrendatarios Actuales tendrán acceso a un mediador para recibir quejas sobre las reparaciones y el mantenimiento. Es más, un inspector de control de plagas llevará a cabo una sola inspección de control de plagas y evaluación de cada apartamento ocupado por los arrendatarios actuales. Finalmente, durante un periodo de 12 meses después de la aprobación final del Acuerdo, si eso ocurre, JD Home Rentals se compromete a no rescindir ningún arrendamiento salvo por cierta causa justificada.
Si el Acuerdo se aprueba definitivamente, usted recibirá otro aviso como arrendatario actual que le dará derecho a seleccionar una inspección independiente o una congelación del alquiler.
Los Miembros de la Clase del Acuerdo de Arrendatarios Anteriores tendrán derecho a un cupón de crédito que se puede utilizar si se mudan a un apartamento que es propiedad o está administrado por el Demandado en la ciudad o condado de Fresno, California, dentro de los dos años de la aprobación final, o si el cupón no se utiliza o se transfiere, una cantidad en efectivo una vez que caduque el cupón. El monto en dólares del cupón depende del tamaño del apartamento que el arrendatario anterior ocupó: $250 por un apartamento de un dormitorio; $350 por un apartamento de dos dormitorios; y $500 por un apartamento de tres o más dormitorios.
Si el Acuerdo es aprobado definitivamente, usted recibirá posteriormente un formulario de reclamación que le brindará la oportunidad de presentar una reclamación para el cupón.
A menos que tome medidas para excluirse del Acuerdo, estará obligado por el Acuerdo (incluyendo todas las liberaciones) y por todas las órdenes del Tribunal, si el Tribunal aprueba el Acuerdo. Si no presenta nada, estará obligado por el Acuerdo. Esto significa que no podrá presentar ninguna reclamación que esté cubierta por el Acuerdo contra los Demandados o cualquier otro Liberado en el futuro.
Si desea excluirse de este Acuerdo, tiene que enviar una carta al Administrador del Acuerdo a la dirección que se indica más abajo con mateles del 22 de agosto de 2020, a más tardar. La Audiencia de Aprobación Final se celebrará el 17 de noviembre de 2020, a las 3:30 p.m., en la Sala 503. El Tribunal, entre otras cosas, decidirá si el Acuerdo es justo, razonable, adecuado y si debiera ser aprobado. El Tribunal también determinará los honorarios de abogados, costos y gastos, y otros asuntos. Usted puede asistir a la audiencia, pero no tiene que hacerlo.

that it was likely the “Contingency Plan” (moving fall sports to spring) that would be adopted by CCCAA,” MJC Athletic Director Nick Stavrianoudakis said on Thursday. “Then with the news yesterday from the Ivy League and some major colleges suspending practices and sports, it was not a surprise that the decision was made today. We have already begun planning for this likely scenario. All sports will be engaged in training and conditioning in the fall and we will have basically two seasons in the spring - an early spring season (with the fall sports) and a late spring season (with the typically spring sports).”

Here are what sports are in the new Early Spring season:

Early Spring: Basketball, Cross Country, Football, Soccer, Water Polo, Women's Golf, Women's Volleyball, Wrestling

The Late Spring sports season includes the usual spring sports (baseball, softball, track and field, etc) and practice will start on March 27 with competition beginning on April 10.

One other change in the upcoming season is competition will be reduced to 70% of a usual season (seven games instead of 10 for football) and there won't be any state championships.

“We are probably going to get a new schedule,” said Stivers, whose Pirates were recently ranked No. 5 in the nation in the 2020 College Football America Juco Preseason Top 30. “They might put us all together as geographically possible and make it a one-year change for league and preseason. Everything is on the table.”

Couples Rush to Get Newly Approved Vision Pill

Clinical studies show active ingredient safely restores youthful eyesight without glasses, contacts, or laser surgery

By Patrick Kennedy
Health Correspondent

CAMBRIDGE, MA — Exciting new studies from Harvard Medical School are creating a surge in demand for the new vision formula called ClearSight Advanced.

“We knew we had a successful formula with an outstanding track record, but we never expected this much demand,” said Jonathan Sinclair, President of New Life Nutraceuticals — the makers of this new vision-restoring breakthrough.

With such strong clinical evidence behind ClearSight Advanced, it's easy to see why the public is so eager to get this new vision-restoring formula.

To begin with, results from the Harvard Medical School study are impressive. A remarkable 87% of patients taking the active ingredient in ClearSight Advanced report visual improvements in as little as three months — with many patients seeing initial results in as little as 10 days.

The results were so encouraging, the lead researcher of the Harvard team, Dr. Max Snodderly concluded, “Perhaps the gradual loss of vision in many older people is not an inevitable consequence of the aging process...”

Why So Much Excitement?

Scientists from the Schepens Eye Research Institute, affiliated with Harvard Medical School, discovered an amazing nutrient that restores and prevents damage to the macula. The macula is the center part of your retina and is responsible for 20/20 vision.

Age-related damage to the macula, called macular degeneration, is the leading cause of vision loss, affecting more than 10 million Americans — more than cataracts and glaucoma combined!

This nutrient is not a drug. It's the active ingredient in ClearSight Advanced. Clinical studies show it supports the macula by increasing “macular pigment density.”

Many patients see improvements to their night vision, allowing them to keep their driver's license. Many are able to see sharper lines and brighter colors. Some report they no longer need glasses, or can at least weaken their prescriptions. And many more avoid further loss of their eyesight.

“My close up and distance vision has improved with the use of VISION-RESTORING SENSATION: Seniors report impressive results with the newly released ClearSight pill. Harvard studies show active ingredient enhances eyesight in days without side effects.

ClearSight Advanced,” says Scott Fisher of West Palm Beach, FL. “I can see more clearly than I had previously and I don't struggle to read the small fonts on my iPhone.”

Impressive Clinical Results

Published in the world's top medical journals like the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA), and Investigative Ophthalmology & Visual Science, the Harvard results are stunning.

The results show ClearSight Advanced helps aging seniors with these troubling symptoms:

- Near-sightedness
- Far-sightedness
- Astigmatism
- Blind spots
- Distortions
- Blurry vision
- Double vision
- Spots and floaters
- Trouble reading
- Faded colors
- Poor night vision
- Eye fatigue
- Cloudy lenses
- Difficulty adjusting to darkness

There is no miracle cure for vision loss and no substitute for qualified medical advice, but the impressive results provide much needed hope for seniors struggling with failing eyesight.

But with such a dramatic improvement in vision and quality of life, it's easy to see why thousands of callers are jamming phone lines trying to secure their supply of ClearSight Advanced.

How It Works

The active ingredient in ClearSight Advanced is a carotenoid, or natural pigment, called lutein. The macula is made from this vital nutrient, so it's required for 20/20 vision.

This breakthrough discovery was confirmed when Dr. Snodderly measured the “macular pigment density,” or “thickness” of the macula in volunteers as young as 24 and as old as 84.

The Harvard study found that people age 60 and over with higher macula pigment density had eyesight that was just as sharp as the volunteers who were still in their 20s!

“Taken together, the evidence suggests that macular pigment may protect against retinal disease by reducing damage that occurs as we age,” Dr. Snodderly said.

What Other Doctors are Saying

For doctors like Dr. Lisbeth Roy, of Boca Raton, Florida, ClearSight Advanced is the only safe, affordable, and reliable way to support failing eyesight.

“I have patients in their 80s who can still drive at night without a problem. When you give your eyes the nutrients they need, you have a good chance of reading, driving, and watching TV without any trouble,” Dr. Roy said.

“The nutrients in ClearSight Advanced help you feel more confident about your vision as you age, so you don't worry as much about things like cataracts, glaucoma, and blind spots... it's good for more than just reading an eye chart.” system now available in Stockton.

“It enhances our ability to perform minimally invasive procedures on a broader range of patients with different surgical needs. From the patient’s perspective, receiving a minimally invasive procedure results in less post-surgical pain and blood loss, a shorter hospital stay, quicker recovery and faster return to normal daily activities,” said Samakandy, a fellowship-trained expert in robotic surgery who is the director for Dameron’s bariatric surgery program.

While Dameron’s announcement did not include how much the hospital paid for its new robotic system, several online sources report the da Vinci Xi costs $2 million and above, depending upon accessories.

“Even during these challenging times, we believe this was an important investment into our community that will give patients access to the highest levels of surgical excellence right here in Stockton,” said Bill Trezza, president of DameronHospital’s board of directors.

Hospital President Daniel Wolcott, who serves in the same capacity at Adventist Health Lodi Memorial Hospital, described the major acquisition as “a positive impact on the health of those who live in San Joaquin County and the surrounding areas. ... We understand the many benefits this will have on our patients’ lives because we have been using this same system at Lodi Memorial for the past five years and the results have been excellent.”

Wolcott said another benefit of bringing the robotic system to Stockton is that it provides an attractive option for surgeons with a preference for robotic surgery.

Said Wolcott: “This may help us attract more medical expertise to the area.”

motivated, but the report found that prosecutors are encouraged to use what it calls “race-neutral” reasons. Those include that the person expressed a distrust of law enforcement, a juror’s prior arrest or a juror having a loved one who had been incarcerated.

In fact, the report found that district attorney training manuals on peremptory challenges encourage discriminatory strikes — telling prosecutors to strike those who had negative experience with law enforcement or are distrustful of the criminal legal system.

The report, which was conducted by Berkeley

Law’s Death Penalty Clinic and headed by Professor Elisabeth Semel, found that prosecutors successfully used their strikes against African American prospective jurors based on their demeanor: because they had dreadlocks, were slouching, wore a short skirt or “blinged out” sandals or had visited family members who were imprisoned or jailed.

They also used their strikes if the prospective jurors had bad experiences with law enforcement, or in Bay Area cases, lived in East Oakland or San Francisco’s Tenderloin neighborhood.

Prosecutors also removed prospective Latino jurors because they were frowning, seemed confused, were wearing large earrings or expressed a belief that the criminal legal system treats people differently because of race, the report found.

Woods said as a Black man, he has been stopped numerous times while driving by police. If he were on a jury panel, that could be considered a valid excuse to exclude him.

Woods also gave the example of an African American public defender in his office who has tried more than 20 cases, yet can count the number of Black jurors she has had on one hand.

The chances are much higher that a person of color may know someone or have a family member who had some prior experience with law enforcement, which under the current law, could be found as a legitimate excuse to exclude a juror, he said.

Gannett, owner of The Stockton Record.

While national newspapers such as The Wall Street Journal and The New York Times are adding digital subscribers that help them navigate advertising declines, many local outlets have had a difficult time. That has contributed to a string of bankruptcies and consolidation, much of it involving investment firms, deepening concerns about declining quality as newsrooms shrink and papers close.

The coronavirus pandemic has exacerbated ad-revenue declines and prompted furloughs, pay cuts, layoffs and more newspaper closings.

Several mayors of cities where McClatchy has a paper wrote to the bankruptcy court, asking the judge to consider the civic value of the paper.

“We want our newspaper to emerge from this bankruptcy with owners who are willing to invest in our community, and provide us with journalism at its best,” Lexington, Kentucky, mayor Linda Gorton said of the Lexington Herald-Leader.

McClatchy’s origins date to 1857, when it began publishing a four-page paper in Sacramento, following the California Gold Rush. The company

Florida hits new one-day high in virus cases

Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

With the United States grappling with the worst coronavirus outbreak in the world, Florida hit a grim milestone Sunday, shattering the national record for a state's largest single-day increase in positive cases.

In Florida, where parts of Walt Disney World re-opened Saturday, 15,299 people tested positive, for a total of 269,811 cases, and 45 deaths were recorded, according to state Department of Health statistics reported Sunday.

Throughout May and into June, the state re-opened much of its economy with some restrictions.

California had the previous record of daily positive cases - 11,694, set on Wednesday.

Deaths from the virus have also been rising in the U.S., especially in the South and West, though still well below the heights hit in April, according to a recent Associated Press analysis of data from Johns Hopkins University.

Testing has increased, but the percentage of people testing positive has risen even more dramatically. A month ago, fewer than 5% of tests came up positive on a daily average. Over the past week, the daily average exceeded 19%.

"I really do think we could control this, and it's the human element that is so critical. It should be an effort of our country. We should be pulling together when we're in a crisis, and we're definitely not doing it," said University of Florida epidemiologist Dr. Cindy Prins.

Adm. Brett Giroir, a member of the White House coronavirus task force, called mask-wearing in public, which has been met with resistance in some U.S. states, "absolutely essential."

Giroir, the assistant secretary at the Health and Human Services Department, told ABC's "This Week" on Sunday that "if we don't have that, we will not get control of the virus."

When Giroir was asked about whether states that are seeing a spike in cases should consider more stringent lockdowns, he said, "Everything should be on the table."

And looking ahead, Giroir said it's possible the situation "could be worse in the fall," when he thinks "we're going to need tens of millions of more tests a month." He also said there's some data that people can get both the flu and COVID-19 at the same time and "that's not really good."

Giroir told ABC's "This Week" that officials would like to see something like 90% of people wearing a mask in public in areas that are hot spots.

President Donald

Trump wore a mask in public for the first time Saturday, something Democratic House Speaker Nancy Pelosi said Sunday showed he has "crossed a bridge."

Pelosi told CNN's "State of the Union" that she hopes it means the president "will change his attitude, which will be helpful in stopping the spread of the coronavirus."

Trump wore a mask during a visit Saturday to Walter Reed National Military Medical Center in suburban Maryland, where he met wounded service members and health care providers.

Surgeon General Jerome Adams said Sunday the Trump administration is "trying to correct" its guidance from earlier in the coronavirus epidemic that wearing face coverings was not necessary.

With virus cases surging and many states and cities now issuing orders to wear masks in public, Adams said he and other administration officials were wrong back in March. But he insists they were going with the scientific knowledge at the time, which suggested that people with COVID-19 who showed no symptoms were not likely to spread the virus.

Dr. Tom Inglesby, director of the Center for Health Security at Johns Hopkins University, told "Fox News Sunday" that he would have liked to have seen administration officials wear masks sooner. He says it should not be viewed as a "personal choice" but a public health imperative.

The World Health Organization has reported another record in the increase in the number of confirmed coronavirus cases worldwide over a 24-hour period, at over 230,000.

The U.N. health agency said Sunday the United States again topped the list among countries, with more than 66,000 cases recorded.

RECLAMATION DISTRICT NO. 800 NOTICE OF INTENT TO ADOPT MITIGATED NEGATIVE DECLARATION AND NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING COSUMNES RIVER CRITICAL REPAIRS

Notice is hereby given that Reclamation District No. 800 (RD 800) has prepared an Initial Study (IS) of environmental effects and intends to adopt a Mitigated Negative Declaration (MND) for proposed levee repairs located along the Cosumnes River in southeastern Sacramento County, California. The project sites are in an unincorporated area that is generally east of the City of Elk Grove, near the communities of Wilton and Sloughhouse.

The project proposes repairs of approximately 3,370 linear feet of levees that have severely eroded at nine separately accessed locations along the Cosumnes River. Proposed repair work would consist of re-grading and reconstruction of the existing levee sections to correct past erosion, and the placement of new rock slope protection (RSP) to prevent future erosion. The project would require permit authorizations from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (Corps), the California Department of Fish and Wildlife (CDFW), and the Central Valley Regional Water Quality Control Board (RWQCB).

The IS/MND has analyzed the potential environmental effects of the project as required by the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and the CEQA Guidelines. On the basis of this analysis, the IS/MND finds that the project would not involve any significant environmental effects, provided that the mitigation measures described in the IS/MND are implemented. RD 800, the project proponent, will implement the mitigation measures. There are no sites enumerated under Section 65962.5 of the Government Code located on or near the project site.

Copies of the IS/MND are available for public review at the office of the RD 800 District Engineer, Wagner & Bonsignore, Consulting Civil Engineers, at the address below. The IS/MND will also be available for review at www.basecampenv.com. RD 800 will accept public and agency comments on the IS/MND during a 30-day review period that will begin on July 13, 2020 and end on August 12, 2020. Comments may be sent via email to Patrick Ervin, at p.ervin@wbcorp.com or via mail or hand-delivery to:

Reclamation District No. 800 c/o Wagner & Bonsignore, Consulting Civil Engineers 2151 River Plaza Drive, Suite 100 Sacramento CA 95833 Attn: Patrick W. Ervin, P.E.

RD 800's Board of Directors will hold a public meeting to consider adoption of the IS/MND on September 3, 2020 at 9:00 a.m. via teleconference. The public is welcomed to call, by dialing 877-838-5247, entering meeting ID 953 6198 0754.

Mueller defends Russia probe, calls Stone a felon

BY ERIC TUCKER

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Former special counsel Robert Mueller sharply defended his investigation into ties between Russia and Donald Trump's 2016 presidential campaign, writing in a newspaper opinion piece Saturday that the probe was of "paramount importance" and asserting that a Trump ally, Roger Stone, "remains a convicted felon, and rightly so" despite the president's decision to commute his prison sentence.

The op-ed in The Washington Post marked Mueller's first public statement on his investigation since his congressional appearance in July 2019. It represented his firmest defense of the two-year probe whose results have come under attack and even been partially undone by the Trump administration, including the president's extraordinary move Friday evening to grant clemency to Stone just days before he was due to report to prison.

Mueller wrote that though he had intended for his team's work to speak for itself, he felt compelled to "respond both to broad claims that our investigation was illegitimate and our motives were improper, and to specific claims that Roger Stone was a victim of our office."

"The Russia investigation was of paramount importance. Stone was prosecuted and convicted because he committed federal crimes. He remains a convicted felon, and rightly so," Mueller wrote.

Mueller did not specify who was making the claims, but it appeared to be an obvious reference to Trump, who as recently as Saturday derided the investigation as this "whole political witch hunt and the Mueller scam."

The mere publication of the op-ed was striking for a former FBI director who was exceedingly tight-lipped during the investigation, refusing to respond to attacks by the president or his allies or to make public appearances explaining or justifying his work. In his first public statement after the investigation's conclusion, Mueller said he intended for his 448-page report to speak for itself. When he later testified to House lawmakers, he was similarly careful not to stray beyond the report's findings or offer new evidence.

But that approach created a void for others, including at the Justice Department, to place their own stamp on his work. Even before the report was released Attorney General William Barr issued a four-page summary document that Mueller privately complained did not adequately capture the gravity of his team's findings.

In the months since, Barr assigned a U.S. attorney to investigate the origins of the Russia probe, and the Justice Department moved to dismiss the criminal case against former Trump administration national security adviser Michael Flynn even though Flynn pleaded guilty to lying to the FBI about contacts with the Russian ambassador during the presidential transition period. That request is the subject of an ongoing court dispute.

The op-ed chronicled the basis for the Stone prosecution, with Mueller recounting how Stone had not only tampered with a witness but also lied repeatedly about his efforts to gain inside information about Democratic emails that Russian intelligence operatives stole and provided to WikiLeaks, which published them in the run-up to the election.

Those efforts, including his discussions with Trump campaign associates about them, cut to the heart of Mueller's mandate to determine whether anyone tied to the campaign coordinated with Russia in the hacking or disclosure of the stolen Democratic emails.

Trump rips private Texas border wall built by backers

BY NOMAAN MERCHANT

Associated Press

HOUSTON

President Donald Trump on Sunday criticized a privately built border wall in South Texas that's showing signs of erosion months after going up, saying it was "only done to make me look bad," even though the wall was built after a months-long campaign by his supporters.

The group that raised money online for the wall promoted itself as supporting Trump during a government shutdown that started in December 2018 because Congress wouldn't fund Trump's demands for a border wall.

Called "We Build the Wall," the group has raised more than $25 million promoting itself as supporting the president.

Former Trump chief strategist Steve Bannon joined the group's board, and Trump ally Kris Kobach became its general counsel. Kobach is now seeking the Republican nomination for U.S. Senate in Kansas.

The company that built the private section in January, North Dakota-based Fisher Industries, has since won a $1.3 billion border wall contract from the federal government, the largest award to date.

The section in question is a roughly 3-mile fence of steel posts just 35 feet from the Rio Grande, the river that forms the U.S.-Mexico border in Texas. That's much closer to the river than the government ordinarily builds border barriers in South Texas because of concerns about erosion and flooding that could violate U.S. treaty obligations with Mexico.

LeBron won't wear message on jersey during restart

Jeff Zillgitt USA TODAY

Lakers star LeBron James has had a voice on several social issues.

But James will not display a message on the back of his jersey when the NBA restarts its 2019-20 season on July 30 at Disney World's ESPN Wide World of Sports Complex near Orlando, Florida.

"It's no disrespect to the list that was handed out to all the players," James, wearing a More Than an Athlete hat, told reporters on a video conference call Saturday. "I commend anyone who decides to put something on the back of their jersey. It's just something that didn't really seriously resonate with my mission, with my goal."

The NBA and National Basketball Players Association agreed on several messages, including Black Lives Matter; Say Their Names; Vote; I Can't Breathe; and Equality.

Nearly 300 players have chosen to put a message on the back of their jersey, The Undeclared reported Wednesday. James is one of a handful of players who will have their name on the jersey.

That doesn't mean he won't spread a message through the media, his social media channels and his online media outlet, Uninterrupted.

"Everything that I do has a purpose, has a meaning, so I don't need to have something on the back of my jersey for people to understand my mission and know what I'm about and what I'm here to do," James said.

James, whose LeBron James Family Foundation does a great deal of work in communities, said he never considered not playing because of the social justice movement that gained strength and attention following George Floyd's death.

"I will continue to push the envelope and keep my foot on the gas and create real change for us as people of color in America."

KELLER BENVENUTTI KIM LLP

LEGAL NOTICE

If you received a non-emergency call from A Place for Mom to a cellular telephone without your consent, you may be eligible to receive a payment from a class action settlement.

A Settlement has been reached in a putative class action lawsuit alleging that A Place for Mom, Inc. ("APFM") called cell phones without the prior express written consent of the recipients. APFM denies that it did anything wrong and the Court has not decided who is right.

Who Is Included? The Settlement Class includes: All persons within the United States who, between August 7, 2013, and August 15, 2019, received, without their consent, a non-emergency call from defendant A Place for Mom, Inc., or any party acting on APFM's behalf, to a cellular telephone. There are two groups of Class Members: (i) Class Members who the parties agree could be identified from APFM's records ("Group 1"); and (ii) Potential Class Members who could not be identified from APFM's records ("Group 2").

What Are the Settlement Terms? A Settlement Fund of $6,000,000 has been established to pay Class Members, attorneys' fees and costs, service awards, and settlement administration costs and expenses. Plaintiff's counsel estimate that the Settlement Award to each Class Member will be in the range of $34.00; however, payments could be more or less than this amount depending on the number of Class Members that participate in the Settlement. If any money remains in the Settlement Fund after making the payments, the balance will be awarded to the Electronic Frontier Foundation in the form of a cy pres distribution.

How Can I Get a Payment? Unless you received a notice by mail or email indicating that you are a member of Group 1, you must submit a completed Claim Form at www.APFMTCPASettlement.com by September 15, 2020 to receive a pro rata share of the settlement funds. If you prefer payment via electronic payment or would like to donate your settlement payment to Fisher Center for Alzheimer's Research Foundation charity, you must also submit a Payment Selection Form and a valid email address online at www.APFMTCPASettlement.com by September 15, 2020. If you do nothing in response, you will be bound by the terms of the Settlement if it is approved by the Court, and you will not receive any monetary benefit from the Settlement.

Why Does Plaintiff's Counsel Estimate Payment in the Range of $34.00 for Each Class Member? The amount of the final cash payment will depend on the total number of Group 1 Class Members who can be located and the total number of Group 2 Potential Class Members who submit valid and timely claims. Approximately 56,000 Class Members who received Mailed Notice will receive payment automatically. The minimum payment for all Class Members if every person who received Email Notice submits a valid and timely Claim Form is estimated to be $1.29. The maximum payment if no one submits a valid and timely Claim Form is estimated to be $71.47. Plaintiff's counsel estimate that approximately 2% (or 60,000) persons who received Email Notice will submit timely and valid Claim Forms establishing they are Class Members. In that event, all Class Members will receive payment in the range of $34.00.

How Do I Exclude Myself or Object to the Settlement? If you do not want to be legally bound by the Settlement, you must complete an Exclusion Form by August 20, 2020. If you do not exclude yourself, you will release claims against APFM. You may object to the Settlement by sending a letter to the Settlement Administrator by August 20, 2020 or by appearing in person, or through an attorney hired by you, at the Final Approval Hearing on October 1, 2020. In light of the outbreak of Coronavirus Disease 2019, the Court cannot be certain that a final approval hearing can be conducted on the date or in the manner anticipated at the time it is scheduled. To obtain up-to-date information about the status of the Final Approval Hearing, please visit www.wawd.uscourts.gov or www.wawd.uscourts.gov/APlaceForMom. You should NOT contact the Court about this matter or the status of the final approval hearing and should instead direct all correspondence to the Settlement Administrator or class counsel.

The Final Approval Hearing. At the Final Approval Hearing on October 1, 2020, the Court will consider whether to approve the Settlement, a request for attorneys' fees of $1,500,000, costs of $75,000, and a service payment of $12,500 to the named plaintiffs.

Your legal rights are affected whether you act or don't act. Read this notice carefully. For more information, including the Settlement Agreement and Class Counsel's application for attorneys' fees and costs, call 1-866-757-7934 or visit www.APFMTCPASettlement.com.

Siskiyou Central Credit Union breaks ground on Yreka building

YREKA – Siskiyou Central Credit Union broke ground Tuesday, July 7, celebrating the start of construction at its new headquarters on Fairlane Road.

SCCU was founded in 1962 by Betty Pitman and Ken Bley, wanting to offer county employees a safe and affordable place to keep their hard-earned pay. After many moves, changes, and charter expansions, Siskiyou Central Credit Union expanded its charter to the entire community of Siskiyou County in January 2001.

Starting from Betty’s desk at the Welfare Department, SCCU spent the next six decades building a reputation as Siskiyou County’s premier local financial institution. SCCU has been serving community residents with a full range of financial products that offer high interest, low fees, and member-focused service.

Today, SCCU is 8,000 members strong with more than $86 million in assets, according to a press release. The new building will replace the current SCCU office, located on Fourth Street in Yreka. The expected completion date is summer of 2021.

“This expansion wouldn’t be possible without our ever-growing membership, board of directors, supervisory committee and staff. We are excited about the opportunities this move will create, and look forward to continuing to serve our members. We are here to serve you, here to stay,” said Becky Ives, President/CEO of Siskiyou Central Credit Union.

Guardian angel

It was a dark and dreary night. Maybe it was dark and stormy. I seem to remember it was raining! I had just walked, climbed might be a better word. Outside it looked like somebody, God maybe, had thrown a blanket over the world. My grandmother would have said that it was “dark as GYPT.” Egypt – I think.

I had been in the basement for about two hours, it was 8:20 now. My favorite professor had assigned me to write a detailed paper about the role of Anastas Mikoyan. Bet you don’t know who he was. He was a Soviet “politik” – a party stalwart. A short stocky Armenian. Tough as nails. He survived the Revolution, the famines, World War II, the purges and outlived Stalin. He helped carry the casket of Lenin in 1924 and was the Soviet representative to the funeral of John Kennedy in 1963. At the United Nations, where he served as ambassador for several years, he was known as “Comrade Nyet.” Like I said, he was tough. He died in 1978.

I had really worked hard on the subject – books, microfiche (that should tell you how long ago this happened), and had taken lots of notes. The professor was my favorite but he gave me the hardest and most obscure topics. He once assigned me a paper on a revolution in Yemen. I think it was because I was the only one who could find Yemen on the map. He expected so much of me. I would never disappoint him.

Now, I needed to get to the dorm. The library closed at 9 and it was 15 minutes away. The place was almost empty. The cleaning staff was coming in. I was unsure about leaving. It was raining really hard. Still, I did not want to ruin my beige Papaloo shoes. They would be ruined! My mother would kill me. She had bought them for me on the understanding I would never wear them in bad weather.

I was just about ready to make a dash for it. A figure appeared at my side. There stood Jerry McKenzie. Jerry was a grad student in chemistry. I saw him every once in a while. I would like to say he was never my boyfriend. Never, never!

What he was, was my personal guardian angel. He always seemed to appear when I needed somebody. If I fell on the snow and ice of Boone, he was there to pick me up. I dropped a loaded tray in the cafeteria. Jerry picked it up. Flunk a test, Jerry would be there to console me. I never knew how he found me.

I had first met Jerry at a graduate student mixer, a dry mixer. Watauga County was dry as was the rest of the state. It turned out that Jerry and his chemistry friends made booze in the basement of the science building. They invited a group of us down for a drink. We figured it was high class moonshine. When we got there you had to pay for your drink. You had a choice – you could kiss a graduate student or you could hold the snake.

The biology department kept a couple of snakes in the basement. I was not really afraid of snakes. My grandmother had a pet snake, it followed her around outside and liked to be rubbed. So, I held the snake. The snake was beautiful, dry and had no hands, unlike the grad students. Some friends and I went down there about once a month. That was the only time I saw Jerry, except when he was rescuing me.

There stood Jerry wearing a raincoat and carrying one of those big golf umbrellas. In one hand he held a yellow slicker and in the other, I swear, rain boots. I was very happy to see him. I asked how he had known where I was. He said that he just figured it out. I donned the rain gear and he walked me to my dorm. I thanked him profusely. He kissed me on the forehead and left.

I lost track of Jerry after we graduated. I have missed him over the years. We all need a guardian angel sometime. I have never figured why he was so attached to me. Was he just a nice guy? Was he a stalker? Was he in love with me? I just don’t know.

Federal officials visit Klamath Falls area to talk about water

By Skye Kinkade

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. – A slew of officials, most notably U.S. Department of the Interior Secretary David Bernhardt, converged in the Klamath Basin last week to talk about water and how it should be split between farmers, Native American tribes, and natural resources.

Also in attendance at the July 9 “roundtable” were Congressman Doug LaMalfa; U.S. Bureau of Reclamation Commissioner Brenda Burman; State Assemblywoman Megan Dahle; Oregon Congressman Greg Walden; and representatives from local tribes and farmers in the area.

LaMalfa referred to the conflict as a “bureaucracy-created disaster,” saying that farmers’ water allocations in the basin were reduced from 140,000 acre feet in April to 80,000 in May. The allocations were later restored, he said.

While Dahle praised the event as “encouraging” and LaMalfa said it shone a spotlight on Klamath water issues, the Klamath Tribes were critical, saying in a press release “the substance of the meeting was little.”

Bernhardt toured a field strewn with white crosses, each representing a farm that is no longer in existence. The field was the site of a “Shut Down and Fed Up” rally on May 29. It was reported by the Klamath Falls Herald and News that after learning of the rally from Walden and at his invitation and that of LaMalfa, Bernhardt spent the day in Klamath Falls, Ore.

“Sometimes it’s important for us to evaluate the situation for ourselves and then try and drive change and that’s what we’re going to try and do,” Bernhardt told the crowd at the event, which was by invitation only.

The Herald and News reported that the visit by the top officials was the first by both a Reclamation Commissioner and Secretary of Interior at the same time, and the first by a sitting Interior secretary since 2002.

LaMalfa said in a release the following day that “bad science has led to decades of disregard for the irrigators’ water rights, and there need to be long-term solutions to update the science so farmers can receive the water that they own.”

LaMalfa went on to say the water “does not belong to anyone other than Basin farmers, and the bureaucracy has no right to take it away without compensation.”

“Yesterday’s meeting was about listening to all parties: tribes, communities, refuge advocates, and farmers so we can educate the secretary on the realities of this project,” said LaMalfa. “This was a beginning of a fresh look at a solution rather than continuing on the failed efforts of the last administration.”

Dahle pointed out that this was the first time Bernhardt and Berman had visited the area, and called the meeting “an important step in the process to help solve 30 years of water conflict.”

The Klamath Tribes said they found out about Bernhardt’s visit two days in advance. They were disappointed that Bernhardt, Burman and LaMalfa did not wear masks, adding “to the disproportionate risk of infection faced by our impoverished tribal community,” the release states.

“The 10-15 minutes afforded to our representatives to speak was not an example of ‘meaningful’ government-to-government consultation as defined in any of several state and federal policies,” the release states. “When our representatives attempted to make this point, Secretary Bernhardt interrupted and informed them that the ‘did not have to come’ to this meeting. We hope that any future request to meet with the Klamath Tribes in our homeland will allow for genuine, meaningful, and respectful exchanges between federal officials and our entire elected Tribal Council if not a larger group of our members.”

The tribe said there was no opportunity for detailed interaction, so they left copies of documents that they hope federal leaders will read.

“We fear that the ‘meeting’ was little more than political cover for further erasure of our Indigenous voices – and in our own homeland. The struggle to protect and restore the health of this magnificent place that the Klamath, Modoc, and Yahooskin peoples have called home for thousands of years continues.”

LEGAL NOTICES

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors has determined that it is necessary and appropriate to submit a ballot measure to the voters in the Zone for the adoption of an increase in the special property tax previously approved by the voters. NOW THEREFORE THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF SISKIYOU RESOLVES AS FOLLOWS: SECTION I. Authority. This resolution is adopted pursuant to Government Code Section 25215.2, Government Code Section 50075, et seq, and Articles XIII A and XIII C of the California Constitution. SECTION II. Title. This Resolution may be cited as "The Greater McCloud Fire and Emergency Response Zone Special Tax Resolution of 2020." SECTION III. Proposal. It is proposed that a special tax measure be submitted to the voters in the Greater McCloud Fire and Emergency Response Zone. Such action is taken in accordance with Government Code Section 50075, et seq, and Article XIII(A) of the California Constitution. The special tax would replace that special tax currently in effect. If this measure is defeated, the original, current existing special tax will remain in place. SECTION IV. Parcel Defined. "Parcel" as used herein shall refer to a legal parcel. A legal parcel means a parcel of land legally separated from all adjoining parcels under the provisions of the California Subdivision

Map Act. SECTION V. Rate to be Charged as a Special Tax. There shall be levied on each parcel within the Greater McCloud Fire and Emergency Response Zone a special tax as follows: Improved parcels: $93.79 each Unimproved parcels: $66.20 each (first and second unimproved parcels) $24.83 each (next third and fourth unimproved parcels) $8.28 each (five or more parcels) Example: An owner of five unimproved parcels would pay $190.34 ($66.20 + $66.20 + $24.83 + $24.83 + $8.28). Thereafter, said special tax shall be increased each year for the first ten (10) years, by a percentage equal to the Consumer Price Index, all urban consumers, U.S. City average, as measured in the month of April each year, except that said increase shall not exceed 3% in any given year. Said special tax shall not be levied on any property belonging to the State or Federal governments or any local governmental agency. Property on the Board roll is subject to the special tax. For purposes of this Resolution, "improved parcels" shall be defined to mean those parcels on either the secured or unsecured roll having an improvement value of more than Three Thousand Dollars ($3,000.00). "Unimproved parcels" shall be defined to mean those parcels on either the secured or unsecured roll having an improvement value of Three Thousand Dollars ($3,000.00) or less. SECTION VI. Levy of Charge. The Board of Supervisors finds and declares that this is a special tax and not an ad valorem tax. Further, the Board finds and declares that the most expedient way to levy and collect this special tax is on a parcel basis as set forth above. SECTION VII. Method of Collection. This special tax, if confirmed by the voters, shall appear as a separate item on the tax bill. The special tax shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as ordinary County ad valorem taxes and shall be subject to the same penalties and the same procedure and sale in the case of delinquency as provided for such ad valorem taxes. All laws applicable to the levy, collection, and enforcement of County ad valorem property taxes shall be applicable to such tax; except if for the first year such tax is levied, the real property to which such tax relates has been transferred or conveyed to a bona fide purchaser for value, or if a lien of a bona fide encumbrance for value has been created and attached thereto prior to the date on which the first installment of such taxes would become delinquent, the tax confirmed pursuant to this Resolution will not result in a lien against such property, but instead shall be transferred to the unsecured roll for collection. SECTION VIII. Purpose of Special Tax. The express purpose for which this special tax is levied is to establish a stable source of funds within the Greater McCloud Fire and Emergency Response Zone of County Service Area No. 4 to obtain, furnish, operate, maintain, and improve fire protection, apparatus, and related services, for the protection of life and property in the Greater McCloud Fire and Emergency Response Zone. Any funds collected from the special tax levied pursuant to this Resolution shall be expended only for such services. Any unexpended funds raised by the levy remaining at the end of the fiscal year shall be carried over for the same purposes in the next fiscal year. Nothing herein precludes County Service Area No. 4 from contracting with other agencies to carry out the purposes of this resolution. The County Fire Warden shall, after consulting with the Local Advisory Board for the Zone, advise the Board of Supervisors of the resource and financial allocation plan for the ensuing fiscal year. The Board of Supervisors shall finally approve any resource and financial allocation plan for the Greater McCloud Fire and Emergency Response Zone of County Service Area No. 4. SECTION IX. Election Date. The proposed special tax shall be submitted to the voters of the Greater McCloud Fire and Emergency Response Zone of County Service Area No. 4 for their approval on November 3, 2020. SECTION X. Effective Date. If the proposed special tax receives the approval of two-thirds of the voters upon the proposition, the special tax, upon the certification of the election, will become a lien on the applicable properties as of January 1, 2021, and will initially be billed on the 2021-22 secured tax roll. SECTION XI. Authority to Decrease Charge. Nothing in this Resolution shall give the Board of Supervisors the authority to increase the special tax levied on the voters in the Greater McCloud Fire and Emergency Response Zone of County Service Area No. 4 voting on such proposal. However, nothing herein will prevent the Board of Supervisors from lowering or eliminating such special tax upon a majority of its own vote after notice and hearing on such proposal. SECTION XII. Publication. This Resolution shall be published once in the Mt. Shasta Herald, a newspaper of general circulation, printed and published in County Service Area No. 4, within fifteen (15) days after passage hereof. SECTION XIII. Severability. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase of this Resolution is for any reason held to be unconstitutional or otherwise unlawful, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Resolution. The Board of Supervisors hereby declares that it would have passed this Resolution and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase thereof irrespective of the fact that one or more of the sections, subsections, sentences, clauses, or phrases be declared unconstitutional or unlawful. SECTION XIV. Accountability Measures. A. Account. Upon the levy and collection of the tax authorized by this resolution, an account shall be created into which the proceeds of the tax shall be deposited. B. Annual Report. An annual report that complies with the requirements of Government Code section 50075.3 shall be filed with the Board of Supervisors no later than the first day of each fiscal year in which the tax is levied. NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF SISKIYOU, acting for and on behalf of the Greater McCloud Fire and Emergency Response Zone of County Service Area No. 4, that the following measure be placed on the ballot for vote at the election to be held on November 3, 2020: "SHALL THE GREATER MCLOUD FIRE AND EMERGENCY RESPONSE ZONE OF COUNTY SERVICE AREA NO. 4 LEVY AN ANNUAL SPECIAL PARCEL TAX OF $93.79 FOR IMPROVED PARCELS, $66.20 FOR THE FIRST TWO UNIMPROVED PARCELS, $24.83 FOR THE THIRD AND FOURTH UNIMPROVED PARCELS, AND $8.28 FOR THE FIFTH OR MORE UNIMPROVED PARCELS, SUBJECT TO AN ANNUAL COST OF LIVING INCREASE FOR THE FIRST 10 YEARS NOT TO EXCEED THREE PERCENT (3%) IN ANY YEAR, WITHOUT EXPIRATION, FOR FUNDING FIRE AND EMERGENCY RESPONSE SERVICES, COLLECTING AN ESTIMATED $86,158.14 ANNUALLY? Demand for robot cooks rises as kitchens combat COVID-19

By Dee-Ann Durbin
and Terence Chea
The Associated Press

HAYWARD, CALIFORNIA » Robots that can cook — from flipping burgers to baking bread — are in growing demand as virus-wary kitchens try to put some distance between workers and customers.

Starting this fall, the White Castle burger chain will test a robot arm that can cook french fries and other foods. The robot, dubbed Flippy, is made by Pasadena, California-based Miso Robotics.

White Castle and Miso have been discussing a partnership for about a year. Those talks accelerated when COVID-19 struck, said White Castle Vice President Jamie Richardson.

Richardson said the robot can free up employees for other tasks like disinfecting tables or handling the rising number of delivery orders. A touch-free environment that minimizes contact is also increasingly important to customers, he said.

“The world’s just reshaped in terms of thoughts around food safety,” Richardson said.

Flippy currently costs $30,000, with a $1,500 monthly service fee. By the middle of next year, Miso hopes to offer the robot for free but charge a higher monthly fee.

Robot food service was a trend even before the coronavirus pandemic, as hospitals, campus cafeterias and others tried to meet demand for fresh, customized options 24 hours a day while keeping labor costs in check. Robot chefs appeared at places like Creator, a burger restaurant in San Francisco, and Dal. komm Coffee outlets in South Korea.

Now, some say, robots may shift from being a novelty to a necessity. The U.S. Centers for Disease Control says the risk of getting COVID-19 from handling or consuming food outside the home is low. Still, there have been numerous outbreaks among restaurant employees and patrons.

“I expect in the next two years you will see pretty significant robotic adoption in the food space because of COVID,” said Vipin Jain, the co-founder and CEO of Blendid, a Silicon Valley startup.

A technician makes an adjustment to a robot at Miso Robotics' White Castle test kitchen in Pasadena on Thursday.

Blendid sells a robot kiosk that makes a variety of fresh smoothies. Customers can order from a smartphone app and tweak the recipe if they want more kale or less ginger, for example. Once or twice a day, a Blendid employee refills the ingredients.

Only a handful are now operating around San Francisco, but since the pandemic began, Blendid has started contract discussions with hospitals, corporations, shopping malls and groceries.

“What used to be forward-thinking — last year, pre-COVID — has become current thinking,” Jain said.

As salad bars shut down, Hayward, California-based Chowbotics started getting more inquiries about Sally, a robot about the size of a refrigerator that makes a variety of salads and bowls. Sally lets customers choose from 22 prepared ingredients stored inside the machine. It can make around 65 bowls a day before kitchen workers need to refill the ingredients.

Prior to this year, Chowbotics had sold around 125 of its $35,000 robots, primarily to hospitals and colleges. But since the coronavirus hit, sales have jumped more than 60%, CEO Rick Wilmer said, with growing interest from grocery stores, senior living communities and even the U.S. Department of Defense.

Wilkinson Baking Co., whose BreadBot mixes, forms and bakes loaves of bread, has also been getting more inquiries. Randall Wilkinson, the CEO of the Walla Walla, Washington-based company, said the BreadBot serves shifting needs. Grocery shoppers no longer want self-serve options like olive bars, but they still want fresh and local food. Seeing how that food is made also gives them more confidence, he said.

Robot cooks haven't always been successful. Spyce, a Boston restaurant with a robot-run kitchen, closed in November to retool its menu. Zume, a Silicon Valley startup that made pizzas with robots, shut down its pizza business in January. It's now making face masks and biodegradable takeout containers.

Max Elder, research director of the Food Futures Lab at the Palo Alto, California-based Institute for the Future, is skeptical about the future of food prep robots once the pandemic has eased.

“Food is so personal, and it needs to involve humans,” he said.

Elder is also concerned that focusing on automating food preparation during the pandemic will shift attention from other problems in the food system, like outbreaks among meat industry workers or produce pickers.

“We can't automate our way out of the pandemic because the pandemic affects much more than what can be automated,” Elder said.

Robots can lower the demand for labor. At the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences in Little Rock, workers used to spend six hours per day prepping grab-and-go salads in the 24-hour cafe, said Tonya Johnson, the school's director of nutrition services. But two years ago, the campus installed a Sally, which now makes an average of 40 salads per day. Sally allowed the school to eliminate a vacancy in its cooking staff, Johnson said.

Johnson said the campus is buying another Sally for students to use when they return this August, which will save four hours per day of grab-and-go salad prep in the college deli.

“I think the pandemic has made us realize how much we need more equipment like Sally,” Johnson said.

NOTICE OF PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY'S REQUEST TO CHANGE RATES FOR THE RECOVERY OF ENERGY PURCHASES AND THE CALIFORNIA CLIMATE CREDIT FOR 2021 (A.20-07-002)

Acronyms you need to know

PG&E: Pacific Gas and Electric Company
CPUC: California Public Utilities Commission
ERRA: Energy Resource Recovery Account

SUMMARY

On July 1, 2020, PG&E filed its 2021 ERRA Forecast application with the CPUC requesting approval to change rates for the following:

- Recovery of approximately $2.8 billion in costs related to the generation of electricity, including fuel and buying energy from third parties to serve bundled customer load
- Setting certain charges for bundled and departing load customers for the recovery of the above-market portion of PG&E's portfolio, which are included in the Power Charge Indifference Adjustment (PCIA), Ongoing Competition Transition Charge (CTC) and Cost Allocation Mechanism (CAM)
- Compliance with government mandates recovered through the Tree Mortality Non-bypassable Charge (TMNBC)

As part of this application, PG&E customers will also receive the California Climate Credit. The credit will be applied twice a year, in April 2021 and October 2021, for residential electric customers and once a year, in April 2021, for residential gas customers.

BACKGROUND

The ERRA is used to record fuel and purchased power costs that can be recovered in customer rates. While this may result in a change in rates, PG&E recovers these costs with no markup for return or profit. The purpose of this application is to forecast costs of obtaining energy for customers and to approve the amount to be returned to customers from the sale of greenhouse gas emission allowances for the 2021 calendar year.

If the CPUC approves this application, PG&E will begin to recover its costs in electric rates effective January 1, 2021. At the end of 2021, PG&E will compare actual costs to the amounts forecasted in this application and will incorporate any differences in next year's application.

HOW WILL THE APPLICATION AFFECT ELECTRIC RATES?

Most customers receive bundled electric service from PG&E, meaning they receive electric generation, transmission and distribution services. This information includes the California Climate Credit for residential customers and greenhouse gas allowance returns for eligible nonresidential customers.

Based on rates currently in effect, the bill for a typical residential customer using 500 kWh per month would increase from $127.45 to $128.42, or 0.8%. Actual impacts will vary depending on energy usage. Detailed rate information will be sent directly to customers in a bill insert.

Direct Access and Community Choice Aggregation customers only receive electric transmission and distribution services from PG&E. PG&E does not purchase energy for these customers. However, as mentioned above, this application addresses recovery of certain costs incurred before their departure.

These customers also receive the benefit of the California Climate Credit. In addition, eligible nonresidential DA and CCA customers receive the benefit of the greenhouse gas allowance returns. The impact of PG&E's application on these customers is an average increase of 2.3%.

Another category of nonbundled customers is Departing Load. These customers do not receive electric generation, transmission or distribution services from PG&E. However, these customers are required to pay certain charges by law or CPUC decision. The impact of PG&E's application on these customers is an average decrease of -3.3%.

Exact amounts are subject to change and to CPUC regulatory approval. PG&E will update its rate request in August 2020 and will provide the CPUC with updated amounts later in the year to ensure the most current information is used to set customer rates.

CPUC PROCESS

This application will be assigned to a judge, who will consider proposals and evidence presented during the formal hearing process. The judge will issue a proposed decision which may adopt PG&E's application, modify it or deny it. Any CPUC Commissioner may sponsor an alternate decision. The proposed decision, and any alternate decisions, will be discussed and voted upon by the CPUC Commissioners.

The Public Advocates Office is currently reviewing this application. The Public Advocates Office is the independent consumer advocate within the CPUC with a statutory mandate to represent customers of investor-owned utilities to obtain the lowest possible rate for service consistent with safe, reliable service and the state's environmental policy goals. PLEAS TAKE NOTICE that:

1. The Plan and Confirmation Order. On June 20, 2020, the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of California, San Francisco Division (the "Bankruptcy Court") entered an order [Docket No. 8053] (the "Confirmation Order") confirming the Debtors' and Shareholder Proponents' Joint Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization Dated June 19, 2020 [Docket No. 8048] (together with all schedules and exhibits thereto, and as may be modified, amended, or supplemented from time to time, the "Plan"). b. Pursuant to Section 8.2(c) of the Plan and Paragraph 34 of the Confirmation Order, in the event of an unresolved dispute regarding (i) any Cure Amount, (ii) the ability of the Reorganized Debtors or any assignee to provide "adequate assurance of future performance" (within the meaning of section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code) under the executory contract or unexpired lease to be assumed, or (iii) any other matter pertaining to assumption, assumption and assignment, or the Cure Amounts required by section 365(b)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code (each, a "Cure Dispute"), such Cure Dispute shall be preserved and may be resolved in due course either consensually without further order of the Bankruptcy Court, or after notice and an opportunity to be heard, by a Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court, which may be entered after July 1, 2020.

WEED – Two College of the Siskiyous men’s basketball sophomores recently signed with four-year schools.
Dwayne McClendon signed with NAIA program Cumberland University of Cumberland, Tennessee, while Bishop Thomas signed with Park University, an NAIA school located in Gilbert, Arizona.
McClendon, a forward from Hammond, Indiana, averaged 15.8 points and six rebounds per game last season, and was a two-time all-conference selection in the Golden Valley Conference. He led the GVC in scoring as a freshman.
Thomas, a point guard from Chico, averaged 8.5 points, 5.3 assists, and four rebounds per game. He was an All-Conference selection as a freshman and led the GVC in and liked and respected by all his teammates. He’s what I would hope/wish for in every player in our program.”

On the court, Heath said that Dwayne was a player that could score anywhere on the floor. He shot nearly 40 percent from 3-point range in his time at COS and was an 80% free-throw shooter.
Thomas was also a leader on the court for COS, Heath said. “He had a knack for coming up big when we needed him the most.”
“He’s the type of young man who other people gravitate towards,” Heath said. “Typical of most good point guards. Off the court a great kid too. Went to class never had any issues off the court. Another kid I wish I could have in my program every year.”

McIntosh appointed to Planning Commission

BY SALLY MORRIS
 THE TRINITY JOURNAL

The Trinity County Planning Commission was joined last week by a new member representing District 4 following a special meeting of the Trinity County Board of Supervisors to appoint Junction City resident Duncan McIntosh as the choice of District 4 Sup. Jeremy Brown.

The board's vote was unanimous during the July 8 special meeting continuing the item from the day before when at least one supervisor voiced concern about a last-minute change in the agenda that initially named a different nominee and provided backup information only on that person, Charis Stockwell of Burnt Ranch.

Sup. Brown announced he had received an application from McIntosh after the agenda was posted for the board's July 7 regular meeting, and he was changing his nominee from Stockwell to McIntosh.

The five-member Planning Commission is comprised of volunteers representing each of the supervisorial districts. Their terms run concurrently with the supervisors who nominate them, though appointment is subject to approval by the Board of Supervisors.

McIntosh is replacing Richard Hoard of Junction City who was nominated by former District 4 Sup. Bill Burton in 2017. Hoard resigned from the position in June, saying he had been asked to do so by Sup. Brown, citing a conflict of interest.

During the board's special meeting July 8, Burton called in to say he had attempted to recruit McIntosh to serve on the commission when he was in office, but the timing wasn't right.

"Everything he has done and worked with in the county has been super strong. Because of all his participation, he has strong institutional knowledge. I'm really glad he has the opportunity now. He knows the ropes and what's going on," Burton said.

In his application for the position, McIntosh indicated that he holds a bachelor's degree in business administration/accounting from Humboldt State University and his employment background includes landscape design/implementation; farm and business management; and consulting.

He is currently Grange Master at the North Fork Grange where he's been a member/volunteer for four years. He is also a member of the Junction City Volunteer Fire Department, volunteers for Junction City Elementary School field trips and presentations on gardening and beekeeping, and was a founding member of Trinity Farms for Compliance, a local advocacy group for cannabis regulations.

The appointment was effective immediately, enabling McIntosh to assume the role in time for the July 9 Planning Commission meeting.

Virtual livestock auction, show approved

BY TONY REED
 THE TRINITY JOURNAL

Although the Trinity County Fair is a no-go this year, its Junior Livestock Show and Auction is moving forward, with the recent approval of the County Environmental Health Department. According to Fair CEO Carrie Bayley, the event will take place July 28 through Aug. 2. However, it will be a bit different, featuring an online livestock show.

The Fair Board of Directors voted to cancel the fair at its last meeting, citing concerns about COVID-19 and the cost to sanitize the fairgrounds and monitor everyone who enters. However, with the much smaller show and auction, such measures will be in place.

"Exhibitors and two household members will be allowed to show their animals, masks will be required if social distancing cannot be maintained," according to information provided by

Bayley. "Sanitation will be done hourly on all touch surfaces, additional porta potties and handwashing stations will be available to help with personal hygiene, no food or beverages will be provided or sold."

The Auction is slated for 2 p.m. on Aug. 1 and will also be done virtually, but those who cannot do so may attend the auction in person. Kids will be able to show the animals in a live stream on the Fair's Facebook page, where more information will be posted soon.

"We would like to thank the Trinity County Jr. Livestock Committee for their hard work to get this plan approved, and the Trinity County Health Department for their support of our Jr. Livestock Exhibitors who are mainly children under the age of 18," Bayley said in an email. "We look forward to a safe and successful Jr. Livestock Show and Sale."

The Fair Board meets again on Thursday, July 16, via teleconference and further details will follow.

Bill introduced to eradicate illegal marijuana grows on public lands

Congressman Jared Huffman, D-San Rafael, issued the following statement after he and Reps. Doug LaMalfa (CA-01), Salud Carbajal (CA-24), Hal Rogers (KY-05), TJ Cox (CA-21), and Doug Lamborn (CO-05) introduced the Protecting Lands Against Narcotics Trafficking (PLANT) Act. This legislation provides resources to help local, state, and federal law enforcement eradicate illegal marijuana grows on public lands and establishes a fund to restore land that has been damaged by illegal cultivation activities.

In 2018, local, state, and federal officials completed a year-long illegal marijuana eradication effort known as Operation Forest Watch. The effort resulted in the seizure of 82 firearms, 638,370 plants, and more than 103,603 pounds of trash, pesticides and chemicals. The most concerning finding was the fact that 89 percent of sites were confirmed to have traces of carbofuran or methamidophos, pesticide components that are prohibited in the U.S.

"Trespass marijuana grows are increasing throughout my district and the U.S., making forests and other public lands unsafe for working and recreation, threatening endangered wildlife, and contaminating rivers and streams," said Congressman Huffman, who represents the "Emerald Triangle" of Mendocino, Humboldt and Trinity counties.

"As state laws evolve to promote safe and legal marijuana growing operations, it's important that we address the immediate threat to public safety and the environment posed by illegal trespass grows. Building on the success of our bipartisan PLANT Act of 2013, this new legislation provides local authorities with the tools needed to not only eradicate illegal grows, but effectively clean up the damage done."

"Our public lands are being abused and held hostage by drug traffickers with large-scale grow operations often run by international cartels. Marijuana legalization efforts in many states have done nothing to reduce the number of illegal trespass grows," Congressman LaMalfa said. "Not only is this a clear danger to the public, but it is also harmful to the environment. Illegal pesticides, illegal water diversions, and the killing of animals has created immeasurable damage. The PLANT Act helps support efforts to combat these illegal grow sites while creating a fund to restore the damaged land. Law enforcement is ill-equipped to safely clean up these grows, but this bill gives them the resources to do it. I thank my colleagues for their support on this bill to eradicate these illegal grows and make our public lands a safer place for both wildlife and recreators."

Not on the fence about masks

With temps in the 90 to 100 range this past week, even this fence lizard decided to come down and hang out on the rocks near Canyon Creek north of Junction City. However, without a mask, it decided to scurry when the camera got about six feet away. Be like a fence lizard — keep your distance when recreating outdoors and wear a mask if you have to get close.

Forest Service releases assessment of current conditions of Northwest forests

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service has released a Bioregional Assessment evaluating the social, economic and ecological conditions and trends covering 19 units across Washington, Oregon and Northern California in what it calls a brief and easy-to-understand format.

The assessment uses the best available science and focuses on capturing current conditions and changes on the national forests and grasslands. It provides recommendations on how the Forest Service could address the challenges facing forests, grasslands and communities in the plans that govern how land management decisions are made.

"The release of this assessment gives our region the data and scientific analysis to make future well-informed, landscape-level decisions that benefit our six northern forests," said Randy Moore, regional forester for the Pacific Southwest Region in California. "Furthermore, we're now able to move forward and prepare for updating land management plans to provide essential commodities and recreational opportunities, manage and reduce risk from wildfires through vegetative management and other proactive landscape efforts, provide clean air, water and habitat for plants and animals, and preserve our cultural resources, for present and future generations."

The Forest Service and other federal land management agencies are required by law to develop plans that guide the long-term management of public lands. These plans are developed using public input and the best available science. They establish priorities for land managers and provide strategic direction for how the plan area is to be managed for a period of ten years or more. They may be periodically amended or revised entirely to address changing conditions or priorities.

"This assessment will make it more efficient to modernize our land management plans and reflect the new science, and changes to social, economic, and ecological conditions across this region," said Glenn Casamassa, regional forester for the Pacific Northwest Region in Oregon and Washington. "It will also preserve the tenets of the Northwest Forest Plan that are working well, so that work can continue effectively and efficiently."

The Northwest Forest Plan covers nearly 25 million acres of federally managed land in Oregon, Washington and Northern California focusing on managing the entire landscape for long-term social and economic stability.

The Bioregional Assessment is not a decision document and does not impact current forest management. Instead, it will be used to shape ongoing engagement with stakeholders, state, county, Tribal governments and Forest Service staff as they prepare for the next steps in the planning process.

More information on Modernizing Forest Plans in the Northwest is available online at www.fs.usda.gov/detail/r6/landmanagement/?cid=stel-prd3831710 or through a GovDelivery email subscription.

KERRINE F. BUSBY; DOES 1-10,
Defendants.

This Court has read and considered the application of plaintiff, Lassen Municipal Utility District, for an order directing service of the summons on defendant Kerrine F. Busby by publication, and the evidence presented in support of the application, and it appears to the satisfaction of the Court that Defendant cannot be served with reasonable diligence in any other manner set forth in Code of Civil Procedure sections 415.10 through 415.30. The Court also finds that Defendant is a necessary party to this matter and is subject to the jurisdiction of this Court.

THEREFORE, IT IS ORDERED that:
Service of the summons in this action on defendant Kerrine F. Busby shall be accomplished by publication in the MODOC COUNTY RECORD, a newspaper published in the State of California, and designated as the newspaper most likely to give actual notice to the defendant.

The publication shall be made once a week for four weeks.
If defendant's address is ascertained prior to the expiration of the time prescribed for publication of the summons, a copy of the summons and complaint and of the order for publication shall immediately be Personally Served.

Service is deemed complete on the 28th day following the first day of publication. Defendant then has 30 days in which to file a responsive pleading (i.e., a total of 58 days from the first date of publication). For purposes of filing a proof of service of summons and delay reduction rules, the Court grants plaintiff a time extension to effect service of process in accordance with this order.

This order does not preclude service upon defendant Kerrine F. Busby in any other manner specified in Code of Civil Procedure sections 415.10 through 415.30, which service supersedes the service by publication.

From the Back Pew

By Wendy Lestina

The town of Gettysburg, geographically in Pennsylvania, is 15 minutes north of the Mason-Dixon line. Baltimore, Maryland is an hour closer than Philadelphia. The town—population 2,390 in 1860—was settled by tavern owner Samuel Gettys, an Irish immigrant who knew a good crossroads when he saw one.

The Battle of Gettysburg was fought July 1-3, 1863 in the dead-center of the Civil War. The battle between Confederate and Union troops that took place there is now considered the turning point of the war, even though—tragically but commonly—the turning point was but the midpoint. When the Gettysburg Battle took place, the War Between the States had been feeding young men to the ground for two years, and—spoiler alert—would continue for another two years, regardless of Union General George Meade's clear victory over Confederate General Robert E. Lee.

The Battle of Gettysburg produced two historic markers for future social studies textbooks: the largest number of Americans (because both sides were Americans) ever killed in a single battle, and President Abraham Lincoln's 10-sentence "appropriate remarks" delivered at the dedication ceremony of the Soldier's National Cemetery (now, the Gettysburg National Cemetery). The park was initially a Pennsylvania-funded project to bury the still-present remains of the Union dead. "Very few" Confederate soldiers are buried there (we may very well have more in the Ferndale Cemetery). Such were the times.

I was typing these words in an email account that has Google Chrome's [insert profanity] Autofill.

What follows are the opening lines of the Getting Burned Address, had Lincoln had been composing his notes in a Google Doc instead with a pen filled with iron gall ink on the back of an envelope.

"Foursquare's Seven Years, our favorite brand forthcoming, updated this continuous: a new nature, concerned investors, liberty—and dedicated to the product that allows me creative equipment...."

A month ago, I watched the documentary "Grant," and was disappointed that Grant's pre-war time in Humboldt County was very briefly mentioned.

On the Ferndale Museum's Facebook page, I grumbled, "[In] the miniseries that debuted this past week on the History Channel, Humboldt County and, specifically, Eureka, got all of three minutes of the life of Pres/Gen. Ulysses Grant. The writers used the 'desolated' nature of Humboldt County, where Grant was stationed for two years in the 1850s, as the reason he started drinking. Can't say I fault them for that. The last time I came home from Costco, I needed a beer."

This post was quickly qualified by a scholarly friend. "The Ron Chernow 2017 biography, Grant, devotes the better part of a chapter to how [Grant's] drinking while stationed at Fort Humboldt caused him to be drummed out of the Army," my friend posted.

"But the source of his craving [for alcohol] was isolation, loneliness and missing his wife. He was captivated by the beauty of the area. When he left, his dream was to bring [his wife] back [to Humboldt County] with him, find farmland and settle down in the area. History had other ideas."

Perhaps if the Civil War had been delayed, I'm thinking, Mr. and Mrs. Grant may have relocated here. Not "here" Humboldt County. Note the "find farmland." They would have come here. To Ferndale.

That didn't happen, of course, and it's all Millard Fillmore's fault. Fillmore—not incidentally Sally Dolfini's nomination for Worst Past President—deeply coveted a second term (a Veep, he'd inherited the job when President Zachary Taylor died). Fillmore was a Whig, but that party shattered over abolition and immigration and other quaint problems we've long since solved. There weren't enough Whigs to want Millard. One of the splinter parties—a group that, with astonishing self-awareness, called itself the Know-Nothings—snapped him up.

Fillmore's ego was the only reality of his candidacy; he carried just one state (Maryland). His candidacy, however, threw the Presidency to James Buchanan—my nomination for Worst Past President.

Had Millard stayed home in Buffalo, John C. Fremont, the first Republican to run for President, would have carried the state of Pennsylvania to win the election.

Fremont was a U.S. Senator from California (yes, that Fremont, the town-by-Oakland Fremont). Sure, he had some issues from a PR point of view (court martialled for mutiny and insubordination, blah blah, but that was before social media, so it took a while for the stories to get around; Ferndale didn't even have a post office yet). And, yes, there would have been military skirmishes during a Fremont Administration: Missouri and Kansas were already bloodied by the slavery issue—but there would not have been a full-on Civil War during his administration, because no one could have bumbled into that as deftly as Buchanan. I'll just declare that so I can make my grand conclusion.

During this fantasy Fremont Administration, Ulysses and Julia Grant come west with their family and homestead at Waddington, where Nehemiah Patrick helps Ulysses build a house. Grant farms and fails—precisely what he did in reality, in Ohio, where he really went instead of Humboldt. Needing to work, he's offered a job by neighbor Patrick, who owns a sawmill up Price Creek (a fair parallel to historical fact, in which Grant is forced to follow his failure by working for his dad in a tannery).

Patrick's sawmill is where the Union Army finds its hero and restores his rank. Price Creek becomes the site of a national memorial.

Ferndale is renamed Grant Center. Grant's Tomb is in the Ferndale Cemetery, surrounded by the graves of dozens of veterans from the Grand Army of the Republic, who are all there right now, and, I promise you, are excited about my idea.

Grant's birthday, April 27, is cause for an annual, commercially successful, mid-spring festival, and was, of course, where everyone was in 1992 when the Grant's Day Quake hit.

And what difference would that make now? Would Grant's descendants—who intermarried with their neighbors: the Deans, the Patricks, the Churches—be reminding us for the ten-thousandth time that their great-great-grandfather was the key figure that made Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation possible?

Would they care? Would we?

said the county's Joint Information Center (JIC) will advise restaurants and other businesses on how to apply for encroachment permits allowing use of sidewalk and street space.

Supervisor Rex Bohn said the Humboldt County Fair board has offered to loan its picnic tables to restaurants that opt to go outdoors rather than close.

Responding to Bohn's question on whether the governor has the authority to declare the new order, Honsal said Newsom is relaying an order for the state's health officer and it is a law that must be followed.

Naming July 17 as the date when enforcement begins, Honsal said the JIC is working with the county's Code Enforcement

Unit to develop a "compliance protocol" for businesses operating in violation of state and county rules.

"It'll be a code enforcement-type action with notice provided – corrective notice, 'Correct your violation or you could be subject to a fine,'" said Honsal.

Bohn asked for more time before starting enforcement, saying July 17 is "a little extreme" and he described an atmosphere of desperation.

"There's a lot of anger and frustration but I don't think either one of those equate to the fear factor that's out there from these small businesses that don't think they're gonna make it," he said.

The day before, he had gotten multiple phone calls and "I didn't hear anger and frustration yesterday, possible way of addressing her inquiry.

"I know that, in talking to one shopkeeper, the patron did not want to wear a mask and so she offered curbside service to that patron," said Councilmember Jennifer Fisk-Becker.

Others on the council also provided advice regarding the medical exception issue.

"There is a kind of waiver for people with asthma or COPD and, so, it's not always best to immediately get into the shaming mode if you see someone without a mask," said Mayor Michael Sweeney. "However, that could also become a loophole where people who don't want to wear a mask claim that they have asthma or some kind of respiratory issue, but law enforcement people can't even go up to them and ask that kind of question."

In other business, the council spent a considerable amount of time discussing whether or not to continue submitting occasional letters to the community in The Enterprise. As described by Sweeney, the matter was brought up because of his concerns that the letters could be construed as being in violation of the Brown Act.

"A council member has offered to prepare a draft and sent it to me," said Sweeney, in explaining how the process has worked since the first letter appeared in the April 9 edition of this publication. "I make some comments and then that letter goes out, but includes everybody on the council's name — suggesting that they, in fact, have seen it, or endorsed it without any kind of public notice to that effect."

The concept of communicating with the community through The Enterprise was first discussed at the council's April 2 meeting, when the non-agenda item was brought forth by Councilmember Stephen Avis.

A: Before the rains.

Health inspector report

Meanwhile, the city's health inspector, Vanessa Huerta, provided a Covid update, including that we are now in "supplemental shelter in place." With a lot more businesses opening up, Ferndale needs to be careful and mindful about sanitizing businesses because more people are going in and out of places. All the businesses that are operating on Main Street have gone through the approval and compliance process with the county.

"We are doing our best

I heard fear for their livelihoods, the idea that they're not gonna be able to afford the basic necessities for their children."

Bohn added that affected businesses don't have time to wait for relief funding.

County Administrative Officer Amy Nilsen said the arrival of CARES Act funding to the county is "in progress" and the timing of its grants and rental assistance for businesses will be outlined at the July 28 board meeting.

The county's economic development director has said that Humboldt's anticipated share of CARES Act funding is about $13 million.

In a public comment session during the video-conferenced meeting, a caller upheld the need to guard against a surge of COVID-19.

Avis in completing that first letter, stating that the purpose would be "telling people we are thinking about them and are concerned."

Various other council members have since penned letters to the community, with versions appearing in the May 21, June 4 and June 18 Enterprise publications.

Debate ensued as to what the intent of the community letter was from the outset, what it should be moving forward, or if it was even necessary regardless of the mechanics.

"My understanding initially was that the reason for submitting these letters to the community was, really, to say 'we've got your back,' that we're doing all we can to maintain the health and safety of the community," said Sweeney.

Others on the council believed that the community letter concept should not only continue, but should also remain in effect beyond the pandemic and include more information about what activities city staff and council are to comply with county and state regulations," said Huerta, who thanked the businesses who are enforcing the mask policy with their customers. It makes people more at ease to know that the businesses in our town are taking protecting everyone's health seriously, she said.

Ferndale is still operating in a pandemic state of emergency. Every day there are new updates big and small. And it is vital to be wearing masks and making masks part of your attire.

Q&A for Ferndale's

"Rex Bohn, you scare me," she said. "You need to protect us as well and I understand you care about people that are having challenges with their businesses but you've got to refer them to the CARES Act, we've got to protect ourselves and believe in this public danger."

Bohn's call for further stalling enforcement wasn't taken up. Public Health Director Michele Stephens said state funding could be held back from the county if it "does anything that contradicts the governor's and state health officer's order."

As of July 15, the county's total number of confirmed cases was 167. There have been 16 hospitalizations and four deaths.

involved with.

"I think the letter has a future beyond the coronavirus and perhaps needs to be discussed further what that direction should be, but not simply abandoned because we think the coronavirus is under control," said Smith. "What I don't want to see is that efforts on the part of this council to reach out to the public get sidetracked, or buried, or lost. I think the letter is a very good idea. It's simple, straight-forward and gets news out to people through the newspaper."

Following a lengthy debate on the issue, Sweeney directed Parrish to develop one or more recommendations as to how the council might proceed with its communication plan in the future.

"I'm not against any of these things, but I'd like to nip in the bud anything that is councilmembers talking to councilmembers in a serial-type of way so that it's approved before it's seen as a group in a public context," said Parrish.

Health Inspector:

Q: What are the exceptions for wearing a mask?

A: Those with breathing issues, kids under two and people who have difficulties putting on or taking off the mask.

Q: Do I have the right to refuse service to people who don't wear masks?

A: Yes

Q: Isn't that discrimination if you don't serve them?

A: You have the right to refuse service.

Shout Outs & Call Outs

Thank you to the Ferndale Fire Department for the really cool activities on the 4th!

Thank you to DCI Builders and a group of locals for the work at the cemetery. Have you noticed the new concrete steps and flowers at the cemetery? If not, go check them out.

Thank you to Tait Wohlfeil for organizing the Black Lives Matters event in Ferndale on Sunday, June 28. What a wonderful, sincere, informative and positive gathering. Great that elected officials were there. Too bad the few people driving by, honking and otherwise attempting to disrupt the event didn't join and listen to what was being shared.

Thanks to everyone who participated in the Sparkle Weekend Clean-up. And thanks to Marc Daniels for the idea. Next Weekend Clean-up – July 18 & 19. And the Francis Creek Clean-up is planned for August 11.

Lastly, thank you to the advertisers who supported the graduation edition of the Ferndale Enterprise.
